New Tax Slash Bill Is Dropped Into Hopper

Knutson Calls New Measure Veto Proof; To Save $5 Billion

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 — A new Republican income tax reduction bill which would cut taxes by five billion, 600 million dollars and remove nearly seven and one-half million persons from the tax rolls was introduced today in the house.

Rep. Knutson (R) Minn., house ways and means committee chairman whose two previous attempts to cut income taxes were beaten by presidential veto, termed the measure "veto proof' as he dropped it into the hopper when the house convened at noon.

The new bill, aimed at fulfilling the GOP campaign pledge of tax relief, provides an increased exemption, general percentage reductions, tax reductions for married couples and benefits for the aged and blind.

Knutson predicted the bill will reach the White House sometime in January.

"If this bill isn't veto proof, then we can't send the President a bill that will satisfy him."

* * *

FEATURES of the new bill are:

1. Increase of the present $500 per capita exemption to $600. It would excuse six million current taxpayers from further tax payment.

2. Provision for husbands and wives to split their income for tax purposes. It would allow savings from 57 percent in lower brackets to 10 percent in upper brackets. An estimated 9,500,000 persons would benefit from the provision.

3. Additional exemption of $600 for persons over 65. It would remove 1,400,000 taxpayers from the tax rolls and benefit a total of 3,700,000 persons.

4. General percentage reductions ranging from 10 to 30 percent.

5. Adjustments in the payment of estate and gift taxes.

The general percentage tax savings under the new bill were broken into four categories.

Individuals with incomes under $1,000 would receive a 30 percent reduction. This would effect savings for 29,200,000 persons.

Persons with incomes from $1,000 to $5,380 would receive reductions between 20 and 30 percent to the benefit of 14,500,000 individuals.

Taxpayers with incomes between $1,396 and $4,000 would receive a 20 percent reduction on

East-West Battle Stalls Agreement

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 18—The United Nations Atomic Energy Commission renewed its efforts today to reach agreement between East and West on the international control of atomic energy.

The problem has been hanging fire for a year. The United States and Russia have been deadlocked on "international control" of this lethal weapon since December, 1946, and there is no change in sight.

On two occasions, Russia and Poland have refused to approve the opinions of the other 10 members of the commission. The two Slav states charged each time that the Western powers are attempting to maintain the American "monopoly" on the atomic bomb.

The United States, meanwhile, has shown no signs of being unduly disturbed by Russia's attitude. The general idea is, "we have the bomb—it's your move."

PARIS, Dec. 18—French Foreign Minister Bidault was quoted today as saying that reports concerning possible merger of the French zone with the American and British occupation areas in Germany are "still premature."

The Bidault statement was reported in an exclusive article in the newspaper Figaro.

Bidault said the merger question is "a problem among several others" and that "it is impossible to solve anything separately. Actually I am not aware of any proposal from anybody."

But by honoring Jackson and Jefferson with the same fried chicken, it keeps down expenses.

The dinner will be held on Feb. 19. An eggless Thursday was selected to keep Republicans from getting ideas.

Meanwhile the treasury reports our dollar bills are wearing out at an alarming rate. Apparently there are still things to be bought for a dollar.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE Clinton Anderson is served a subpoena by Senate Sergeant-at-arms Edward McGinnis (right) calling on him to surrender the list of big-time grain speculators. Anderson announced he would appear before the senate appropriations committee but it was "impossible" to furnish the list at this time.

SHARP CUT EXPECTED

Ag Officials Prepare Winter Wheat Estimate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—The nation was scheduled to get its first official estimate today of the important 1948 Winter wheat crop, which threatens to fall far short of this year's record yield.

The Agriculture department was scheduled to issue a report on the crop late this afternoon. The report will be based on the acreage of wheat planted by farmers.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson has said the crop will determine the length of the current food-saving campaign.

On the eve of issuance of the report, a Commerce department spokesman said that unless weather conditions improve, a "sharp cut" in wheat production may be expected.

The official based his statement on information received from the chief wheat-producing regions of the midwest where planting of the winter crop was delayed by a prolonged drought.

* * *

ONLY 24 HOURS before the initial report on the 1948 crop was to be issued, the Agriculture department revealed that this year's winter wheat yield topped the one billion bushel mark for the first time.

The department reported the 1947 wheat yield, including the winter crop of one billion, 68 million bushels, was one billion, 365 million bushels—almost 42 million bushels under its November estimate.

The report, based on Dec. 1 conditions, set the nation's total 1947 grain yield at about 105 million bushels below the department's estimate a month earlier.

This downward revision in the total crop estimate dealt a heavy blow at the administration's plans to export 570 million bushels of grain to needy foreign nations before next June.

Government officials pointed out that the 105-million bushel drop more than offset the food conservation drive aimed at saving 100 million bushels of grain for foreign aid.

In addition to the record wheat production, the report revealed that the 1947 corn crop totaled only two billion, 400 million bushels, about 26 percent smaller than last year's yield.

Secrecy Cloaks New Jet Bomber

MOSES LAKE, Wash., Dec. 18—Secrecy shrouded the Moses Lake Army airbase in Eastern Washington today after Boeing's experimental stratojet bomber, the XB-47, made a perfect landing yesterday in an initial hour's test flight from Seattle.

The new bomber, with its radically new swept-back wings and tail and powered by six jets, loafed along on its 145-mile maiden flight over the Cascade mountains at speeds of 200 to 300 miles an hour.

Tight-lipped Army spokesman had said its speed is "in the 500-mile-per hour class."

Moses Lake was chosen for tests of what the Boeing company claims is "the greatest power potential of any airplane in the world" because of the field's remoteness and its two 12,000-foot runways.

The 60-ton bomber is designed to carry a 10-ton bomb load at near the speed of sound.

French Report Third Party

PARIS, Dec. 18—The French Socialist National Council today is supporting current negotiations aimed at forming a "third force," described by Former Premier Leon Blum as a "super-party" and designed to oppose both the Communists and Charles De Gaulle's Rightists.

The Socialist Party Council announced approval of the talks, thus favoring intimate cooperation of the Socialists with the Popular Republicans and Radical-Socialists.

3 Local Men Held For Theft Of Corn, Steel

Three Circleville men, ranging in age from 20 to 23, pleaded guilty Thursday before Mayor Ben H. Gordon on charges involving the thefts of 72 bushels of corn from the farm of Ralph Z. McCoy, Ringgold pike, and four I-beams, taken from the yard near the warehouse of John W. Eshelman.

The three men were bound over to the grand jury, and bonds of $1,000 were levied for each charge, making a total of $2,000 for each of the accused men.

Charles Reed, Delmar Weaver, Jr., and Paul Weaver were taken into custody Wednesday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Chief of Police William F. McCrady.

* * *

CHIEF McCRADY said the trio had been under observation since the thefts were reported, but no evidence had been found until recently.

Sheriff Radcliff, Deputy Carl Radcliff, Chief McCrady and Officer Turney Ross searched for the steel beams, which had been valued at $400 by the owner, John W. Eshelman, and found the steel had been sold in Huntington, W. Va. for the price of $46.

Thursday morning, Sheriff Radcliff received a check from the Kitts Hill dairy, Ironton, made out to Reed in payment for corn bought by the dairy.

Reed was released on bond Thursday, while Delmar and Paul Weaver remained in the county jail. The January grand jury will hear the case against the trio.

JOHN HURLEY, (center) who bragged he had "married 55 women" swallowed poison during his trial in St. Paul, Minn., federal court and was removed to a hospital. Hurley took the poison while one of his "wives" was on the witness stand. Hurley was charged with violating the national stolen property act.

Royal Property Grab Suggested

SOFIA, Dec. 18—Sofia lawmakers were confronted today with a bill authorizing the state to confiscate properties of Bulgarian royalty.

In introducing the measure, it was pointed out that the country's kings have involved Bulgaria in three catastrophic wars and accumulated wealth from the people's resources.

Among properties cited for seizure are palaces, hunting residences and paintings estimated at 242-million dollars.

Gamblers In Grain May Be Made Public

Political Tiff Waged Over Inflation Issue

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—Senate Democrats said today that they will fight any Republican efforts to force an adjournment of congress Friday unless action is taken against inflation.

A Democratic spokesman disclosed that minority strategy on the Taft bill for "voluntary" inflation curbs will be to "vote against adjournment."

Sen. Taft (R) O., whose bill faced a battery of drastic Democratic amendments, predicted that the GOP would stick to its plans to quit Friday. He charged the Democrats "don't want to pass anything" and are delaying action.

In the house there were signs of waivering on the leadership determination to pull out Friday night for the holiday trip home.

* * *

SPEAKER Martin (R) Mass., saw a chance of calling up Taft's bill Friday if it passed the senate today. Majority Leader Halleck (R) Ind., also said there would be "action" on the bill.

Senate Minority Leader Barkley of Kentucky offered the administration amendments which touched off a partisan battle and blocked speedy passage in the senate. Most controversial of these was a proposal to substitue compulsory allocation — industrial rationing — of scarce commodities.

Both sides finally agreed that under Barkley's proposal meat rationing controls could be authorized. Taft called it a "complete return to controls."

Taft told newsmen that the Democrats were deliberately blocking his bill.

Barkley told the senate it should do a "thorough job even if it has to wait until a few days after Christmas."

* * *

ALTHOUGH Taft's hopes for one-day action on his measure were dashed, the senate gave its overwhelming approval to legislation restoring consumer installment buying controls until Feb. 28, 1949. But there was virtually no hope of it winning house acceptance in the special session.

Countering Taft's provision for allocation of scarce commodities under voluntary industry agreements approved by the President, Barkley's major amendment would authorize the chief executive also to issue "regulations and orders" in the absence of voluntary agreements.

Barkley argued that Taft gave the same kind of compulsory powers to the President on transportation allocations and export controls in his own bill. But Taft insisted that he could not go beyond a revision which would permit the President to "initiate" voluntary arrangements.

Anderson Gives Offer To Probers

Ag Chief Objects To Closed Hearing

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—Agriculture Secretary Anderson agreed today to give the senate appropriations committee the lists of commodity market speculators on condition that the names be "made public."

The secretary's stand was made behind the committee's closed doors and was not revealed until two and one-half hours later when the session was thrown open and the record of the proceedings was read by the official reporter.

Anderson told the appropriations committee, headed by Sen. Bridges (R) N. H., that he would not give the list of commodity market traders "in executive session."

Anderson's recorded assertion said:

* * *

"I WILL GIVE it to the committee and make it public at the same time."

By a vote of the full committee, all details of the hearings were withheld from a throng of newsmen until the entire record of Anderson's testimony had been read.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., tried to have the "series of votes" taken behind closed doors announced at the beginning of the open hearing.

But Sen. Saltonstall (R) Mass., objected, insisting that it was agreed the disclosure of what Anderson said should be made only by reading his testimony back as it was given.

Anderson at first told the committee he could not "deliver" the voluminous list of names to the committee today.

His answer was mis-understood by Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., who did most of the questioning. Ferguson thought he was refusing to give the names to the committee.

The secretary then explained the conditions under which he would provide the names.

As Anderson conferred with the committee behind closed doors, Agriculture department employes wheeled to the committee room carts bearing nearly 100 thick notebooks.

These were believed to be the voluminous records of grain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—The United States stiffened its battle lines today to meet anticipated Russian maneuvers in the "cold war" intensified by the breakdown of the Big Four foreign ministers council.

There is general anticipation in Washington that the Soviet Union will step up its activities in the propaganda field despite the ominous silence from Russia since Foreign Minister Molotov's return to the Kremlin.

The mercury was falling again in Ohio today as a mass of cold air from Canada skirted the northern part of the state on its way eastward.

Weather Bureau forecasters said that temperatures would drop between 15 and 30 degrees tonight, with the full force of the cold invading the New England states by tomorrow.

Southwest winds forced the mercury upward last night. Observers said the winds were clocked at more than 35-miles-an-hour along Lake Erie.

A high range of 26 to 36 degrees was forecast for Ohio tomorrow.

The state department of highways reported roads slippery in spots north and east of a line through Eaton, London, Bucyrus and Lorain, with icy roads and drifting snow in the extreme northwest portion of Ohio.

Cadiz Firm To Build 120 Homes For Miners

CADIZ, Dec. 18—Executive Vice President James Hyslop announced today that the Hanna Coal Co. is promoting a $1,500,000 housing project for its employes at Cadiz.

Hyslop said the project is the first of its kind in the industry and that he expects the plan to have nationwide repercussions.

He explained that "the housing shortage prevents full and complete operation of the mine," so the company bought 41 acres of land on which it expects to erect 120 two-story homes, to be sold at cost.

Hyslop said the houses would be of individual design, have one-third of an acre of land each, and would sell for between $10,000 and $15,000 apiece.

* * *

THE CADIZ city council agreed at its last session to annex the proposed suburb and supply it with streets and the usual facilities.

According to Hyslop, the financing of the homes would be carried on through banks and other regular channels with the company acting as a sort of underwriter for the project.

He said many of the 3,000 miners in the area were paying $60 per month rent and that one contractor under consideration told him the payments on the proposed houses would amount to only $53 a month.

Singleton Pleads Innocent

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18—Cleveland's fabulous used-car dealer pleaded innocent today when arraigned on a larceny by trick charge before Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Burt W. Griffin.

Bail on Jack Singelton, whose car lot transactions have left a large number of would-be buyers out of approximately $700,000 in cash, was set at $100,000, the same figure which has kept him in jail for more than two weeks.

Judge Griffin, in setting the bail, said he saw no reason for lowering the figure since defense counsel had not produced any new testimony to warrant a reduction.

Rags-To-Riches Check Booked

CHICAGO, Dec. 18—State auditors planned a check today of the books of Charles T. Moore, 42, Chicago real estate operator who worked himself into a two-million dollar yearly business after quitting his job as elevator operator in 1939.

Moore appeared voluntarily at the state's attorney's office yesterday and told officials that a $21,450 shortage in his accounts had spoiled his rags-to-riches career.

The operator brought along his books, and Assistant State's Attorney Clement Cody said they would be examined to determine the full amount of the shortage and whether there was any criminal violation.

Cody said Moore told him that the shortage was caused by a mixup in accounts through which investors' funds were used to defray high overhead expenses.

Cadiz Firm To Build 120 Homes For Miners

CADIZ, Dec. 18—Executive Vice President James Hyslop announced today that the Hanna Coal Co. is promoting a $1,500,000 housing project for its employes at Cadiz.

Hyslop said the project is the first of its kind in the industry and that he expects the plan to have nationwide repercussions.

He explained that "the housing shortage prevents full and complete operation of the mine," so the company bought 41 acres of land on which it expects to erect 120 two-story homes, to be sold at cost.

Hyslop said the houses would be of individual design, have one-third of an acre of land each, and would sell for between $10,000 and $15,000 apiece.

• • •

THE CADIZ city council agreed at its last session to annex the proposed suburb and supply it with streets and the usual facilities.

According to Hyslop, the financing of the homes would be carried on through banks and other regular channels with the company acting as a sort of underwriter for the project.

He said many of the 3,000 miners in the area were paying $60 per month rent and that one contractor under consideration told him the payments on the proposed houses would amount to only $53 a month.

Singleton Pleads Innocent

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18—Cleveland's fabulous used-car dealer pleaded innocent today when arraigned on a larceny by trick charge before Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Burt W. Griffin.

Bail on Jack Singelton, whose car lot transactions have left a large number of would-be buyers out of approximately $700,000 in cash, was set at $100,000, the same figure which has kept him in jail for more than two weeks.

Judge Griffin, in setting the bail, said he saw no reason for lowering the figure since defense counsel had not produced any new testimony to warrant a reduction.

Anderson Gives Offer To Probers

Ag Chief Objects To Closed Hearing

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—Agriculture Secretary Anderson agreed today to give the senate appropriations committee the lists of commodity market speculators on condition that the names be "made public."

The secretary's stand was made behind the committee's closed doors and was not revealed until two and one-half hours later when the session was thrown open and the record of the proceedings was read by the official reporter.

Anderson told the appropriations committee, headed by Sen. Bridges (R) N. H., that he would not give the list of commodity market traders "in executive session."

Anderson's recorded assertion said:

• • •

"I WILL GIVE it to the committee and make it public at the same time."

By a vote of the full committee, all details of the hearings were withheld from a throng of newsmen until the entire record of Anderson's testimony had been read.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D) Wyo., tried to have the "series of votes" taken behind closed doors announced at the beginning of the open hearing.

But Sen. Saltonstall (R) Mass., objected, insisting that it was agreed the disclosure of what Anderson said should be made only by reading his testimony back as it was given.

Anderson at first told the committee he could not "deliver" the voluminous list of names to the committee today.

His answer was mis-understood by Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., who did most of the questioning. Ferguson thought he was refusing to give the names to the committee.

The secretary then explained the conditions under which he would provide the names.

As Anderson conferred with the committee behind closed doors, Agriculture department employes wheeled to the committee room carts bearing nearly 100 thick notebooks.

These were believed to be the voluminous records of grain

Rags-To-Riches Check Booked

CHICAGO, Dec. 18—State auditors planned a check today of the books of Charles T. Moore, 42, Chicago real estate operator who worked himself into a two-million dollar yearly business after quitting his job as elevator operator in 1939.

Moore appeared voluntarily at the state's attorney's office yesterday and told officials that a $21,450 shortage in his accounts had spoiled his rags-to-riches career.

The operator brought along his books, and Assistant State's Attorney Clement Cody said they would be examined to determine the full amount of the shortage and whether there was any criminal violation.

Cody said Moore told him that the shortage was caused by a mixup in accounts through which investors' funds were used to defray high overhead expenses.

trading which under a subpoena issued yesterday the committee ordered Anderson to produce.

Twenty minutes after the cart full of notebooks was wheeled into the room, another Agriculture department aide hurried in with an arm full of documents.

He refused to tell reporters what they contained, except to say that it was "material the secretary asked for."

* * *

THE CABINET member presented himself to the senate group after he had labored far into the night, presumably preparing information on the records demanded by the investigators.

Anderson earlier this week refused to disclose the grain-trading records, declaring that to do so would violate the Commodity Exchange Act.

However, the committee challenged this contention and voted to subpoena the cabinet official and all his records.

The agriculture secretary earlier had maintained that the records demanded by the senators could not be compiled on such short notice because they involve "billions" of wheat transactions over a two-year period.

As he prepared to go before the committee, Anderson conferred with his department lawyers who earlier advised him that the commodity exchange laws prohibit him from revealing the list of grain speculators.

* * *

MEANWHILE, Appropriations Committee Chairman Bridges (R) N. H., again called in senate legal advisers who hold that Anderson may lawfully divulge the list because the exchange act empowers him to make public any information he considers "appropriate."

In subpoenaing Anderson, the committee took unusual action against a cabinet member in an effort to force disclosure of the list which is said to include the names of government officials and members of congress.

Committee senators want to search the list for grain operators who, like Edwin W. Pauley, special assistant to Army Secretary Royall, have government connection.

Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., who is spearheading the committee inquiry, told newsmen the committee "will not expect the impossible" but he pointed to Anderson's references in speeches to the possession of a list of speculators.

Rat Poison Kills 2 Lads

LEBANON, Dec. 18—Rat poison today killed two of the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McVey, of Route 1, Morrow, seven miles southeast of here.

The children, Clifford L. McVey, 6, and his brother, Harry, 7, became ill yesterday. Clifford died in a hospital late last night and his brother died early today.

Warren County Coroner H. M. Williams said that the boys apparently had eaten cakes of rat poison they found in the barnyard of the farm home into which the family had moved only a week ago.

Dr. Williams returned a verdict of accidental death, saying that the poison apparently had been scattered in the yard before the McVey family moved in.

The other three children were placed under observation, but have shown no indication that they ate the poison.

Officials Eye Engineer's Death

PORTSMOUTH, Dec. 18—Scioto County Coroner Virgil A. Fowler withheld a verdict today in the death of N and W Railway Engineer Henry C. Wells of Chillicothe, pending an autopsy.

Wells' body was found yesterday along the railway right of way in New Boston.

County Prosecutor Marvin A. Kelly, said Wells apparently was thrown to the ground when he tried to board a freight returning to the railway yards in East Portsmouth.

Guards Placed In Court For Officers' Trial

ALBANY, Ky., Dec. 18—Governor Clements today had a squad of six Kentucky highway patrol officers assigned to the circuit court in Clinton County following indictment of three local peace officers.

The Clinton County Sheriff, J. B. Smith, was named in six of the grand jury true bills. Two charged him with wilful neglect of official duty and three others charged drunkeness while on duty in a public place. The sixth charged breach of the peace.

A constable, Virgil Albertson, and a deputy constable, Jim Fowler, were named in two indictments each. They were charged with murder.

The trial of Sheriff Smith has been set before Circuit Judge R. C. Tarter Saturday on all six counts. A conviction of the sheriff on the charge of neglect of duty would involve possible forfeiture of office.

* * *

THE TRIALS of the constables were scheduled for today.

Albertson and Fowler are alleged in the indictments to have killed H. N. Denney and his son, Luther, in a pistol battle last September 7 as the officers and another constable, Bill Coop, raided the Denney home to search for illicit liquor.

When the shooting ended the two Denneys and Coop were dead.

The court and other county officials requested the aid of state officers after the county jailer, Howard Boles, was reported ill and unable to attend the session of the court, now in its third week.

"It's your happiness dad that I'm wishing today and I hope it comes true in a very big way."

A note left by Schultz said: "This may be Christmas for some people but some people don't know what it means to be left alone. Tell George it was an accident."

Attorneys Try To Save Nichols

LIMA, Dec. 18—Defense counsel announced two new moves today in attempts to save Lester Nichols, of Silver Lake, Ind., from Ohio's electric chair.

Nichols was convicted of first-degree murder by a jury last week for the fatal shooting of his father-in-law, The Rev. Lewis Whittaker, last May 6.

Allen County Common Pleas Judge M. B. Jenkins late yesterday denied two motions for a new trial. However, defense counsel immediately made two more motions. One seeks a modification of the verdict on the ground that premeditation was not proved in the trial and the other asks that the court commit Nichols for an observation period to determine his sanity.

UN Panel Seeks Atom Plan Accord

Nation's Atomic Energy Commission.

Gen. McNaughton predicted the United States would retain its ascendancy in the atomic race for at least 10 years.

The United States, as advocated by Bernard Baruch, wants all atomic materials placed under the supervision of the international atomic control agency.

Plants, and existing atomic weapons would also be placed under the international agency, if the American plan were adopted.

Russia, on the other hand wants all atomic producing facilities destroyed. The Soviet Union wants no one—not even the proposed international police force—to have recourse to atomic weapons.

* * *

INSPECTION systems also differ. The United States wants a group of inspectors empowered to go anywhere, at any time, and able to conduct thorough searches to make sure there is no "atomic bootlegging," refuses to accept this plan. She insists the atomic inspectors should only have the right to make "periodic" investigations of member nations.

U. S. Exports To Reds Triple September Total

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 — The Commerce department reported today that U. S. exports to Russia in October more than trebled shipments in the previous month.

The value of goods sent to the Soviet Union were valued at nine million, 200 thousand dollars in October compared to a flat three million in September.

Exports to the Soviet Union in October were considerably below the same month a year ago when 11 million, 100 thousand dollars worth of goods was shipped.

In fact, shipments to Russia in 1946 averaged nearly 30 million dollars a month.

October imports from the USSR were down to almost half the September amount. Four million, 700 thousand dollars in goods was shipped into this country in October compared to 14 million dollars worth in September.

At the same time, October imports from Russia were half a million dollars above the same month in 1946, but more than half a million dollars below the monthly average for that year.

3. American and British officials signed an agreement placing a greater burden on the U. S. taxpayer in operating their combined zones in Germay—now known as "Bizonia"—but giving the United States a far greater voice in control.

Guards Placed In Court For Officers' Trial

ALBANY, Ky., Dec. 18—Governor Clements today had a squad of six Kentucky highway patrol officers assigned to the circuit court in Clinton County following indictment of three local peace officers.

The Clinton County Sheriff, J. B. Smith, was named in six of the grand jury true bills. Two charged him with wilful neglect of official duty and three others charged drunkeness while on duty in a public place. The sixth charged breach of the peace.

A constable, Virgil Albertson, and a deputy constable, Jim Fowler, were named in two indictments each. They were charged with murder.

The trial of Sheriff Smith has been set before Circuit Judge R. C. Tarter Saturday on all six counts. A conviction of the sheriff on the charge of neglect of duty would involve possible forfeiture of office.

• • •

THE TRIALS of the constables were scheduled for today.

Albertson and Fowler are alleged in the indictments to have killed H. N. Denney and his son, Luther, in a pistol battle last September 7 as the officers and another constable, Bill Coop, raided the Denney home to search for illicit liquor.

When the shooting ended the two Denneys and Coop were dead.

The court and other county officials requested the aid of state officers after the county jailer, Howard Boles, was reported ill and unable to attend the session of the court, now in its third week.

Tiny Baby Shoe Seen As Clue

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—A tiny baby shoe, scuffed and well worn, is being held today by police for the wife of George W. Schultz, 39, a suicide.

The shoe was found beside the asphyxiated body of Schultz in the apartment where he lived alone. With it was a Christmas postcard signed "George" which read:

"It's your happiness dad that I'm wishing today and I hope it comes true in a very big way."

A note left by Schultz said: "This may be Christmas for some people but some people don't know what it means to be left alone. Tell George it was an accident."

The first newspaper in Oklahoma, the Cherokee advocate, began publications at Tahlequah, Sept. 26, 1844.

Attorneys Try To Save Nichols

LIMA, Dec. 18—Defense counsel announced two new moves today in attempts to save Lester Nichols, of Silver Lake, Ind., from Ohio's electric chair.

Nichols was convicted of first-degree murder by a jury last week for the fatal shooting of his father-in-law, The Rev. Lewis Whittaker, last May 6.

Allen County Common Pleas Judge M. B. Jenkins late yesterday denied two motions for a new trial. However, defense counsel immediately made two more motions. One seeks a modification of the verdict on the ground that premeditation was not proved in the trial and the other asks that the court commit Nichols for an observation period to determine his sanity.

Biggest Party To Be Quietst

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18—Cleveland's biggest new year's eve celebration is going to be almost noiseless.

Ten thousand young Methodists, chosen from among two million high school members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship, will conduct a great communion service in Public Hall during the hours at which the rest of the world will be hailing the new year.

Approximately 1,000 denominational leaders of youth and 500 dignitaries and youth leaders from many nations of the world will attend the four-day conference opening December 30.

UN Panel Seeks Atom Plan Accord

Nation's Atomic Energy Commission.

Gen. McNaughton predicted the United States would retain its ascendancy in the atomic race for at least 10 years.

The United States, as advocated by Bernard Baruch, wants all atomic materials placed under the supervision of the international atomic control agency.

Plants, and existing atomic weapons would also be placed under the international agency, if the American plan were adopted.

Russia, on the other hand wants all atomic producing facilities destroyed. The Soviet Union wants no one—not even the proposed international police force—to have recourse to atomic weapons.

• • •

INSPECTION systems also differ. The United States wants a group of inspectors empowered to go anywhere, at any time, and able to conduct thorough searches to make sure there is no "atomic bootlegging," refuses to accept this plan. She insists the atomic inspectors should only have the right to make "periodic" investigations of member nations.

• • •

THE OTHERS were:

Anahid Ajemian, 21, of New York, concert violinist; Santha Rama Rau, 24, of Tokyo, author and official hostess of India's ambassador to Japan; and Anne Waterman, 22, of New Haven, Conn., the youngest teacher at Warsaw university.

Also singled out for recognition were Mildred L. Lillie, 32, municipal judge for Los Angeles county; Carson McCullers, 30, of Nyack, N. Y., novelist; Tom Owen, 30, of New York, fashion designer; Shirley Adelson Siegel, 29, of Los Angeles, for her work as a community leader; and Elaine Whitelaw, 33, of New York, director of women's activities for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

U. S. Exports To Reds Triple September Total

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 — The Commerce department reported today that U. S. exports to Russia in October more than trebled shipments in the previous month.

The value of goods sent to the Soviet Union were valued at nine million, 200 thousand dollars in October compared to a flat three million in September.

Exports to the Soviet Union in October were considerably below the same month a year ago when 11 million, 100 thousand dollars worth of goods was shipped.

In fact, shipments to Russia in 1946 averaged nearly 30 million dollars a month.

October imports from the USSR were down to almost half the September amount. Four million, 700 thousand dollars in goods was shipped into this country in October compared to 14 million dollars worth in September.

At the same time, October imports from Russia were half a million dollars above the same month in 1946, but more than half a million dollars below the monthly average for that year.

New Tax Bill Ready

the $4,000 and 10 percent on income above that figure. It would affect 1,700,000 taxpayers.

Knutson said that 77 percent of the general percentage reduction savings will go to persons with incomes of less than $4,000.

• • •

HE SAID that the bill will be retroactive to Jan. 1. A refund would be provided on payroll tax deductions made between the first of the year and the date of enactment.

Knutson declared that the bill would be approved for house action as soon as possible after President Truman presents his budget message during the first week of the new session. He asserted that no hearings would be required other than possible brief testimony from treasury officials.

Red Paper Says U. S. Split Parley

Pravda Blames Imperialism

LONDON, Dec. 18—The United States was accused today of sabotaging the Big Four conference in the first official Russian Communist statement on failure of the parley.

The charge was levelled by Pravda, official organ of the Communist party in Moscow.

Pravda asserted that the United States broke up the meeting when the Americans found out the parley could not be used as a cover for "imperialist" intentions.

The commentary of Pravda was broadcast by the Moscow radio.

It said:

"Beyond doubt the United States State department was counting upon utilizing the conference of foreign ministers for the purpose of covering with the authority of the foreign ministers' council an American policy for establishing an imperialist peace.

* * *

"REALIZING the impossibility of using the council for that purpose (Secretary of State) Marshall adopted an aggressive mood to break up the conference."

Pravda asserted that Marshall, "leading the British and French representatives on a halter," apparently intended to dictate his will to the Soviet delegation as well.

The Communist newspaper asserted, however, that "the American scythe met the Soviet stone."

Austrian Foreign minister Karl Gruber, who has been in London for conferences on Big Four consideration of an Austrian treaty, denied meanwhile a Soviet charge that conditions of American aid to Austria violated Austrian sovereignty.

He told a news conference, held prior to his return tomorrow to Vienna, that he does not believe Austria will have further need for American aid beyond that which has just been voted by the U. S. congress.

Gruber reiterated that Austria will not take part in any of the series of international agreements now being formulated by the Soviet-dominated bloc of Eastern European nations.

He said that Austria also will not be bound by decisions of the forthcoming Danube conference. The Vienna government representatives are not eligible to attend the conference.

Coroner Calls Death Accident

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18-Franklin County Coroner Mitchell A. Spyker refused to comment today on his verdict of "accidental death" in the case of the 16-day-old unnamed son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Hackenburg.

Dr. Spyker confered with Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett, Assistant Prosecutor William Bryant and Sheriff Ralph J. Paul for almost two hours yesterday before issuing his ruling.

Earlier in the day, Sheriff Paul filed a confidential report with Bartlett. He said the report included results of a lie detector test administered Tuesday to the parents of the baby, which died of a skull fracture Dec. 7.

Young Workers Getting Break

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—A trend toward hiring of younger workers was reported today by Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation Administrator Frank J. Collopy.

The administrator said most of the men and 29 percent of the women who drew their first unemployment benefit checks last month were 45 years of age and over.

Collopy reported that the number of benefit recipients dropped to a new postwar low in November. The weekly average was 25,721 persons, a 20 percent drop from October figures.

Three of every five recipients were non-veterans, an exact reversal of last January's ratio.

The diameter of the earth at the equator is 7,926 miles. Through the poles it is 7,899.

CHANGED MIND AFTER DEATH TRY

A PROMINENT ACTORS' AGENT, Walter Kane is carried from his Hollywood home after attempting to commit suicide by swallowing a box of sleeping pills, according to police. Apparently changing his mind after taking the pills, Kane telephoned his physician to "get here in a hurry." The suicide attempt was attributed to "despondency." (International)

3 Found Dead In Bizarre Death Case In Toledo; Father Sought

TOLEDO, Dec. 18—The one-year-old son of Mrs. Lorette Osinski, one of three persons found shot to death in a Toledo home yesterday, died early today of malnutrition and exposure.

A tri-state hunt was underway for James Osinski, estranged husband of the dead woman.

The baby son, John, was in a coma when found by police. He and his brother, James, 2, were taken to Robinwood hospital where both were reported suffering from malnutrition and exposure.

Police said the victims, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ditmyer and their daughter, Mrs. Osinski, had been dead about four days.

* * *

HOSPITAL aides reported James' condition somehwat improved today.

According to police, Osinski was placed on a $200 peace bond about two weeks ago after Mrs. Osinski had complained that he had entered the Ditmyer home and beaten her and her parents.

Police broke into the home after suspicious neighbors reported receiving telephone calls from Osinski asking whether they had seen Mr. and Mrs. Ditmyer and his wife.

They found Ditmyer's body in a sitting position in the living room of the home, a bullett wound in his chest.

His wife's body was found in the dining room and the body of Mrs. Osinski, an expectant mother, was on a stair landing.

The two baby boys had broken into a refrigerator and had eaten fruits obtained from it. They were huddled about the bodies when police opened the door on one of Toledo's most bizarre slayings.

Lads Avoiding Brother's Trike

BOSTON, Dec. 18—The three young brothers of 5-year-old Stephen Barnes avoided today the shiny red Christmas tricycle he will never ride.

As long as Stephen never will ride it, his brothers don't want it.

The tricycle was delivered to the Barnes' home in East Boston just before his mother received the grim message that he had been killed under a street car.

Red Paper Says U. S. Split Parley

Pravda Blames Imperialism

LONDON, Dec. 18—The United States was accused today of sabotaging the Big Four conference in the first official Russian Communist statement on failure of the parley.

The charge was levelled by Pravda, official organ of the Communist party in Moscow.

Pravda asserted that the United States broke up the meeting when the Americans found out the parley could not be used as a cover for "imperialist" intentions.

The commentary of Pravda was broadcast by the Moscow radio.

It said:

"Beyond doubt the United States State department was counting upon utilizing the conference of foreign ministers for the purpose of covering with the authority of the foreign ministers' council an American policy for establishing an imperialist peace.

* * *

"REALIZING the impossibility of using the council for that purpose (Secretary of State) Marshall adopted an aggressive mood to break up the conference."

Pravda asserted that Marshall, "leading the British and French representatives on a halter," apparently intended to dictate his will to the Soviet delegation as well.

The Communist newspaper asserted, however, that "the American scythe met the Soviet stone."

Austrian Foreign minister Karl Gruber, who has been in London for conferences on Big Four consideration of an Austrian treaty, denied meanwhile a Soviet charge that conditions of American aid to Austria violated Austrian sovereignty.

He told a news conference, held prior to his return tomorrow to Vienna, that he does not believe Austria will have further need for American aid beyond that which has just been voted by the U. S. congress.

Gruber reiterated that Austria will not take part in any of the series of international agreements now being formulated by the Soviet-dominated bloc of Eastern European nations.

He said that Austria also will not be bound by decisions of the forthcoming Danube conference. The Vienna government representatives are not eligible to attend the conference.

Coroner Calls Death Accident

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18-Franklin County Coroner Mitchell A. Spyker refused to comment today on his verdict of "accidental death" in the case of the 16-day-old unnamed son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Hackenburg.

Dr. Spyker confered with Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett, Assistant Prosecutor William Bryant and Sheriff Ralph J. Paul for almost two hours yesterday before issuing his ruling.

Earlier in the day, Sheriff Paul filed a confidential report with Bartlett. He said the report included results of a lie detector test administered Tuesday to the parents of the baby, which died of a skull fracture Dec. 7.

Young Workers Getting Break

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—A trend toward hiring of younger workers was reported today by Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation Administrator Frank J. Collopy.

The administrator said most of the men and 29 percent of the women who drew their first unemployment benefit checks last month were 45 years of age and over.

Collopy reported that the number of benefit recipients dropped to a new postwar low in November. The weekly average was 25,721 persons, a 20 percent drop from October figures.

Three of every five recipients were non-veterans, an exact reversal of last January's ratio.

The diameter of the earth at the equator is 7,926 miles. Through the poles it is 7,899.

CHANGED MIND AFTER DEATH TRY

A PROMINENT ACTORS' AGENT, Walter Kane is carried from his Hollywood home after attempting to commit suicide by swallowing a box of sleeping pills, according to police. Apparently changing his mind after taking the pills, Kane telephoned his physician to "get here in a hurry." The suicide attempt was attributed to "despondency." (International)

3 Found Dead In Bizarre Death Case In Toledo; Father Sought

TOLEDO, Dec. 18—The one-year-old son of Mrs. Lorette Osinski, one of three persons found shot to death in a Toledo home yesterday, died early today of malnutrition and exposure.

A tri-state hunt was underway for James Osinski, estranged husband of the dead woman.

The baby son, John, was in a coma when found by police. He and his brother, James, 2, were taken to Robinwood hospital where both were reported suffering from malnutrition and exposure.

Police said the victims, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ditmyer and their daughter, Mrs. Osinski, had been dead about four days.

* * *

HOSPITAL aides reported James' condition somewhat improved today.

According to police, Osinski was placed on a $200 peace bond about two weeks ago after Mrs. Osinski had complained that he had entered the Ditmyer home and beaten her and her parents.

Police broke into the home after suspicious neighbors reported receiving telephone calls from Osinski asking whether they had seen Mr. and Mrs. Ditmyer and his wife.

They found Ditmyer's body in a sitting position in the living room of the home, a bullett wound in his chest.

His wife's body was found in the dining room and the body of Mrs. Osinski, an expectant mother, was on a stair landing.

The two baby boys had broken into a refrigerator and had eaten fruits obtained from it. They were huddled about the bodies when police opened the door on one of Toledo's most bizarre slayings.

Lads Avoiding Brother's Trike

BOSTON, Dec. 18—The three young brothers of 5-year-old Stephen Barnes avoided today the shiny red Christmas tricycle he will never ride.

As long as Stephen never will ride it, his brothers don't want it.

The tricycle was delivered to the Barnes' home in East Boston just before his mother received the grim message that he had been killed under a street car.

Pickaway County Tax Books To Be Opened January 15

$350,000 Expected As Take

5,000 Statements Being Readied

Tax books will be opened about Jan. 15 for the collection of real estate taxes for the first half of the year.

Robert G. Colville, Pickaway County Treasurer, said his office is preparing to mail out 5,000 statements which would bring in approximately $350,000 —an amount slightly higher than the previous figure.

Colville reported that already some taxpayers have been pressing his office for permission to pay their assessments in advance. This is impossible, since not all of the final rates have been determined.

Some over-lapping areas have not yet been fixed.

Nearly all of the new rates are either the same or lower than previously, Colville reported. Circleville corporation and school district rates, however, have been increased sharply.

It was explained that the $385,000 school bond issue approved by voters would appear under the new levy.

* * *

OLD RATE for this district was $11 while the new rate will be $13.80. Circleville corporation's new rate will be $18.80 compared to the old levy of $16.10.

Although there have been a few taxpayers who would like to pay their taxes immediately, Colville said he was certain there will be an equal number who will be delinquent when the deadline rolls around.

He blames carelessness for the majority of cases where property owners fail to carry their share of the tax load.

All tax rates have been set by the county budget commission, a panel of men made up of Colville, Fred L. Tipton, county auditor; and Kenneth Robbins, prosecuting attorney.

ARCHBISHOP OF ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL in Rome, Cardinal Tedeschini (right) raises his hand as he blesses the newly-raised statue (left) to the first American saint, Mother Frances Cabrini. The hitherto mysterious identity of the donors was solved by the presence at the dedication of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leroy Warner (extreme right) of Chicago, who flew from the U. S. to Rome to attend the unveiling of the 18-ton, 15-foot marble statue. Saint Cabrini won her fame among the poor of Chicago. (International Radiophoto)

Farm Bureau Office Burns

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—Damage was set at $30,000 today from a savage hour-long blaze that routed 500 Farm Bureau employes from their offices in the Clinton building here yesterday afternoon.

The flames were discovered by James Carmichael, 21, an employe of the C. D. Brady Thread Co., who said:

"It seemed like flames came out of the wall."

Brady reported that he smelled smoke and ran to the basement to investigate. Mrs. Brady ran to the telephone to report the fire, but before she completed her call, the flames raged up through the floor and she was forced to flee through a curtain of fire. Her hair and eyebrows were singed but she was only slightly injured.

The blaze started about 3:30 p. m. and some 300 women and 200 men employes of the Ohio Farm Bureau Automobile and Fire Insurance Companies were quickly evacuated without a casualty.

Judge Orders Money Return

CINCINNATI, Dec. 18 —The Cincinnati numbers house raided by police last week may get back the $11,000 which police confiscated in the raid.

Police Judge Clarence Denning has convicted four men of operating the house, fining one of them $500 and costs and imposing a six months workhouse sentence.

However, acting on what he said was a higher court ruling, Judge Denning ordered the confiscated money returned. The operators were understood to be planning suit against Police Chief Eugene Weatherly and Safety Director Oris Hamilton if the order is not complied with.

Separate Probe Is Expected

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—A separate investigation into last week's brutal murder of a 26-year-old real estate salesman, Elmo C. Rice, was opened today by Franklin County Coroner Mitchell A. Spyker.

Dr. Spyker said his investigation would be separate from those conducted by the sheriff and city police and would be conducted along medical lines to focus attention on new clues in the case. Rice's bullet-punctured body was found hanging over the railing of an Olentange river bridge near Worthington.

City Detective Capt. Glenn W. Hoffman announced that the had received a laboratory analysis on a gray hat found in the river near the scene of the crime. However, his only statement was that stains on the hat—the main clue in the case—were "apparently blood."

Labor Expert To Be Heard

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—William L. Connally, director of the division of labor standards in the U. S. Department of Labor will be the chief speaker tonight when some 450 persons celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the Columbus Federation of Labor.

State Commerce Director Fred Milligan will represent speaker's roster will include many figures prominent in the state and national AFL organization.

Cargo Vessel Sends Out SOS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18—The Freighter Simon Benson was reported limping toward Honolulu today after the 7,176-ton vessel began splitting in two across her deck in stormy seas 1,500 miles north of Hawaii.

Following receipt of an SOS, the U. S. Army Hospital Ship Comfort reported in a radio message that she was hurrying to the aid of the Simon Benson, which had some 44 men aboard.

The Comfort's message estimated it would take her 30 hours to reach stricken freighter.

The Simon Benson reported that her cargo of rice was swelling in her holds as the heavy seas pounded over the ship's sides. The swelling of the wet rice evidently was threatening to burst the ship's seams.

Meyers Case Hitting Snag

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—A federal attorney said today that "technical difficulties" are slowing down the government's drive to prosecute retired Maj. Gen. Bennett Meyers.

U. S. Attorney George Morris Fay announced that the federal grand jury which had been expected to decide last week whether SMeyers must stand trial for perjury still is not ready to act.

Fay explained that the "difficulties" arose during preparation of possible indictments for the jury's consideration.

He said that he expects the grand jury to act tomorrow, but that there is no "guarantee" that it will.

The Meyers case was given "top priority" by the Justice department after the retired general was accused before the senate war investigating committee of making $150,000 during the war from a Dayton, Ohio, war contract plant.

Irgun Urging War On Arabs

JERUSALEM, Dec. 18—The militant Irgun Zavi Leumi organization appealed to Jews in Palestine today to wage Arabs."

The appeal, made over Irgun's underground radio transmitter, followed a warning by Arab league states that the Arabs are ready to battle to prevent partition of the Holy Land.

Irgun also urged continued resistance to British forces "to expedite British withdrawal" from the Holy Land.

The Irgun spokesman called for immediate establishment of a Jewish provisional government in Palestine to present the Jewish case before the United Nations security council "if necessary."

The Arab league issued a communique at the end of a secret council meeting in Cairo which declared all Arabs are "ready to go into battle."

JERUSALEM, Dec. 18—The militant Irgun Zavi Leumi organization appealed to Jews in Palestine today to wage Arabs."

The appeal, made over Irgun's underground radio transmitter, followed a warning by Arab league states that the Arabs are ready to battle to prevent partition of the Holy Land.

Irgun also urged continued resistance to British forces "to expedite British withdrawal" from the Holy Land.

The Irgun spokesman called for immediate establishment of a Jewish provisional government in Palestine to present the Jewish case before the United Nations security council "if necessary."

The Arab league issued a communique at the end of a secret council meeting in Cairo which declared all Arabs are "ready to go into battle."

ARCHBISHOP OF ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL in Rome, Cardinal Tedeschini (right) raises his hand as he blesses the newly-raised statue (left) to the first American saint, Mother Frances Cabrini. The hitherto mysterious identity of the donors was solved by the presence at the dedication of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leroy Warner (extreme right) of Chicago, who flew from the U. S. to Rome to attend the unveiling of the 18-ton, 15-foot marble statue. Saint Cabrini won her fame among the poor of Chicago. (International Radiophoto)

Separate Probe Is Expected

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—A separate investigation into last week's brutal murder of a 26-year-old real estate salesman, Elmo C. Rice, was opened today by Franklin County Coroner Mitchell A. Spyker.

Dr. Spyker said his investigation would be separate from those conducted by the sheriff and city police and would be conducted along medical lines to focus attention on new clues in the case. Rice's bullet-punctured body was found hanging over the railing of an Olentange river bridge near Worthington.

City Detective Capt. Glenn W. Hoffman announced that the had received a laboratory analysis on a gray hat found in the river near the scene of the crime. However, his only statement was that stains on the hat—the main clue in the case—were "apparently blood."

Cargo Vessel Sends Out SOS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18—The Freighter Simon Benson was reported limping toward Honolulu today after the 7,176-ton vessel began splitting in two across her deck in stormy seas 1,500 miles north of Hawaii.

Following receipt of an SOS, the U. S. Army Hospital Ship Comfort reported in a radio message that she was hurrying to the aid of the Simon Benson, which had some 44 men aboard.

The Comfort's message estimated it would take her 30 hours to reach stricken freighter.

The Simon Benson reported that her cargo of rice was swelling in her holds as the heavy seas pounded over the ship's sides. The swelling of the wet rice evidently was threatening to burst the ship's seams.

Farm Bureau Office Burns

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18—Damage was set at $30,000 today from a savage hour-long blaze that routed 500 Farm Bureau employes from their offices in the Clinton building here yesterday afternoon.

The flames were discovered by James Carmichael, 21, an employe of the C. D. Brady Thread Co., who said:

"It seemed like flames came out of the wall."

Brady reported that he smelled smoke and ran to the basement to investigate. Mrs. Brady ran to the telephone to report the fire, but before she completed her call, the flames raged up through the floor and she was forced to flee through a curtain of fire. Her hair and eyebrows were singed but she was only slightly injured.

The blaze started about 3:30 p. m. and some 300 women and 200 men employes of the Ohio Farm Bureau Automobile and Fire Insurance Companies were quickly evacuated without a casualty.

WHAT GERMANY NEEDS

WHAT ARE Germans talking and thinking about?

Food, says John S. Hollister, recently returned American Friends Service Committee (Quaker) relief worker. Hollister, speaking before a Los Angeles Town Hall audience, said that a million Germans will die, directly or indirectly, from starvation this Winter, with tuberculosis rising to plague proportions.

Reasons for German food shortage are many. The drought of last Summer was the most severe for 100 years. In peace times Germany has to import some food and through post-war boundary lines she has lost much of her best food-raising land. There are 13 million Germans now in that country who lived elsewhere before the war, and a million displaced persons. Occupation troops of two nations, a million in all, live off Germany.

German officials are tired, hungry, confused, and not equal to the responsibility now being forced upon them in the allies' effort to establish self-government. Hollister suggests that "shock troops", 1,000 American specialists in various fields, be dispatched to Germany to live and work with natives to show them by actual participation how to reorganize their wrecked economy. An American lawyer, for example, could demonstrate not the individual's duty to the state which the German knows well enough, but that unique conception of democracy which is the state's concern with the well being of its citizens.

Germans today scoff at democracy because they do not understand it. They should be taught by democratic Americans living among them.

Germany must be fed and helped to its feet for its own sake and also because Germany is the key to European recovery.

ELECTRICITY FOR FARMS

EVERY 21 seconds of the work week a new farm is hooked up with electricity. Any day now the 2,000,000th farmer will be plugged into the rural network of government-financed electric power, according to the head of the Rural Electrification administration, Claude R. Wickard. The goal of the agency is electricity for all American farms. While two-fifths of American farms are still without electrical power, it is a wonderful thing that so many have it.

Drive along a country road after dark and watch the lights blinking in the barns at chore time. Think what this means when the cows have to be milked and the stock fed. What a boon it is when a sick animal requires middle-of-the-night care. What would happen to the living standards of France and Italy, two countries so greatly in need of aid from the United States, if three-fifths of their farms had electricity?

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

"What did he say?"

That seems to be the eternal question in Washington. The stories are conflicting and confused, but there is no uncertainty that he barged into conversations with opinions that impressed others, opponents perhaps, as juvenile.

I am, of course, referring to General Eisenhower, who prefers to be called Ike. As the stories go, Ike Eisenhower has been going out to dinner among politicians, male and female. Whenever opportunity offers, he apparently grabs at the conversation. On at least two occasions, as I understand it, Ike talked on such subjects as taxation in a manner which startled his hearers because what they heard was unrelated to any reality.

I do not go in either for gossip or prophecy. I do not discuss the family life of queens nor do I manufacture romances for ladies in years of mature discretion. Therefore, I should not give this space to Ike Eisenhower and his mumbling were it not that he paradoxically is one of the most active candidates for the Presidency on the Republican ticket while at the same time he is Mr. Truman's Chief-of-Staff and wears the uniform of the non-political American Army.

The impropriety of his conduct caused the President to appoint his successor while he is still in office. This not-too-gentle hint left Ike Eisenhower cold. He prefers the protection of the uniform to the give-and-take of politics. He prefers to discuss political questions in the privacy of dinner parties rather than to set forth his position in the open where they can be subjected to public scrutiny. He is in a class with Harold Stassen and Henry Wallace, who are the most active candidates for the presidency and permanently so, but he lacks their courage. They hit the hustings and take their chances with public opinion and even ridicule; he hides behind a non-political title while he operates in politics. At least, he cuts a paradoxical figure; at most, it is an absurd one.

All the time that I listened to the "What did he say?" conversations in Washington, I could not help wondering why Ike Eisenhower does not play the game according to the rules. Those rules require that an army officer should not play party politics. Eisenhower has a well-organized, adequately-financed political machine seeking his nomination as a Republican. He hopes, most of all, to get the Pennsylvania delegation.

Both Dewey and Taft believe that Senator Martin, who will head that delegation, will favor them. No one can blame Senator Martin for biding his time; he will hold a balance of power in the convention and can gain political strength for himself and his state therefrom. Eisenhower's managers are concentrating upon that state.

The game is obvious and in the open. But the general is not. He is playing coy—but coy in a United States uniform which is a symbol of defense against a foreign foe, not for tricks in party politics.

Furthermore, he apparently will invade the Republican party as the last hope of the professional New Dealers. They have no expectations with Truman. He has managed skillfully to rid himself of the most brazenly opportunistic of them. Those who remain in Washington are sad that the empires they created for themselves crumbled as soon as Truman took office.

DIET AND HEALTH

Infection Carried By Rabbits

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SOME diseases which we have come to dread are not primarily human afflictions at all. Ordinarily they prey on animals, never attacking man unless, by some chance, he comes in contact with an infected animal.

One such ailment is tularemia which occurs naturally in rabbits, and thus gets its popular name of rabbit fever. Ground squirrels, wild rats, and field mice may also harbor the infection, and man may get it from these sources indirectly through the bite of a wood tick or a fly which has fed on the infected rodents.

Ulcer Forms

Usually, at the point where the infection enters the skin, an ulcer forms, and the lymph glands in the surrounding area become enlarged. The infection then may spread and affect the spleen, liver, and lungs.

The symptoms develop within from one to ten days after the bite occurs. The disorder begins suddenly with a feeling of sickness, chills, fever, and headache. The temperature at first may vary from 100 to 104 degrees. This fever usually lasts for from two to three days; then the temperature falls to normal for about a two-day period. It again rises and the fever may continue for several weeks. When the fever disappears, there may be a prolonged period of weakness which may last for from three to six months.

Finding the Germ

The diagnosis may be confirmed by finding the tularemia germ either in the sore where the bite occurred or in the blood during the first week of the disease.

In general, the outlook (as to life) for persons with this condition is good, but there is a prolonged period of debility or weakness lasting for months. In some cases, such complications as pneumonia or meningitis may occur and, of course, these complications are extremely dangerous and often fatal.

Prevention

Every effort should be made to prevent this disorder. Persons who handle wild rabbits should wear rubber gloves and protect the eyes from infected material.

Insofar as the treatment of tularemia is concerned, such things as the sulfonamide drugs and penicillin have not been found effective. Within the past year, however, evidence has been presented which indicates that streptomycin is of value in the treatment of this disorder.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

G. W.: Do cataracts form on an eye which has been operated on for glaucoma?

Answer: Cataracts do not necessarily form under these circumstances, although they may occur. In the event that they do, however, their operative removal involves no additional risk.

The treatment consists in the use of such tonics as arsenic, iron, and cod-liver oil, if the health is below par. Hexamine has been employed, and the use of various local ointments has been suggested.

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE THING AT A TIME

SKILLFUL play of some contracts involves the neatest order of events, whereby each side suit does its part in helping eliminate losers in the next suit. In a spade contract, for instance, the clubs may be used to get rid of a losing heart, the hearts then may be employed to get rid of a losing diamond, and along the way the spade suit may be employed for ruffing out a loser in the hearts to thereby put them in shape for the discard of the unwanted diamond. It can all be quite systematic, almost symmetrical.

R. J. Reynolds, of the Santanoni at Saranac Lake, New York, said after this deal that he could not recommend the bidding he actually did in the South. But then he explained "I knew my partner's No Trump was strong, and as she is very conservative I decided to gamble on a vulnerable slam." In view of the way he proved he can play a hand, his apology for the bidding is not accepted, since it requires none.

West opened the diamond Q to the K. The spade J and A were scored, and Mr. Reynolds carefully refrained from a third round of trumps to leave the K in dummy as a re-entry. Having built his plan, the timing made it wise now to lead the heart 10, letting West have it with the J. The diamond 10 came back to the A. Now he shed losers like water off a duck's back. He scored the club K, led to the heart A, discarded the heart 5 on the club A, ruffed the heart 9 with the spade Q to set up the dummy's heart 8, led the spade 7 to the K, discarded his losing diamond 7 on the thirteenth heart and had nothing left in his own hand except good trumps.

With apparently two losers in hearts and one in diamonds, he had got rid of them all except the one he gave up in hearts. He of course required some luck to have the hearts divide evenly, but his greatest luck consisted of having the cardsmanship to see how seeking that break gave him a chance to make the contract.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

CATHY caught her breath on a little gasp as there was a hard pounding on the front door, and then a man's voice called loudly, "Miz' Westbrook! Hi, Miz' Westbrook—are you all right?"

Cathy stumbled to the front door and opened it upon their next-door neighbor, Wilbur Krantz, in shirt and trousers, his feet bare, his face white with excitement.

"Must a' hit somewhere in town. There's a fire—see there?" he babbled swiftly. "Wanted to see if y'all were all right. I'm going in to town to see if I can be of any help—must be bad there. Reckin they got the full force. Wasn't that some wind?"

Cathy and Maggie stared, as the man raced away, at the reddish glow toward town that was deepening and growing more ominous every moment.

"Lightning!" said Maggie in a soft, terrified breath. "Something's been hit."

Cathy said swiftly, "Yes, and I'm like Mr. Krantz, Maggie—I'm going in to see if I can be of any help. If that storm struck the town in full force, then there's work there for everybody that can lift his hand."

The thought that there might be people who needed her help rallied Maggie as nothing else could have done.

"Yes, of course. I'll get my first aid kit, Cathy, and get some clothes on. Can you start the Betsy-Bug?" she panted. Cathy assented and ran out into the darkness.

The rain was still falling, but more gently now, the sort of rain farmers and people with cherished gardens had prayed for for weeks; a slow, gentle soaking rain that would revive thirsty flowers and vegetables. But it would not be of much service in putting out a stubborn fire, Cathy told herself soberly, as she swung open the garage door and coaxed the sleeping Betsy-Bug to reluctant life.

All up and down the little suburban street lights were flashing on, and people in all stages of dress and undress were huddled on verandas and at open windows. There was the sound of many faithful cars of the type and vintage of the Betsy-Bug being brought to life. Excited voices called to each other for news; rumor grew in a breath and advanced at leaps and bounds. Mr. Krantz roared off in his reconverted jeep as Maggie and Cathy drove out of their driveway and into the road; and by the time they had turned toward town, they had become one of a rapidly lengthening row of cars, all heading toward town where the angry red glow in the sky was growing more and more ominous.

"My saints and stars!" breathed Maggie, as they reached the edge of town. "That fire's in Frog Hollow, Cathy. Those shacks will burn like tinder, and two and three families all scrouged up in each one of them!"

By now they could gauge something of the extent of the storm's havoc. It had cut through the town sideways, catching the main part of the business section, the modest middle-class homes on its edge, some of the finer homes, and cutting a wide swath through the very heart of Frogtown, which was Cypressville's equivalent of the slums of a larger city.

Because of their sturdier construction, the more substantial buildings in town had suffered only broken window lights and shattered electric signs; some fine old trees that had been carefully preserved by the civic-minded Garden Club had been uprooted. But smaller, older structures lay in ruins. Homes were crushed as though by a giant's fist. Here and there among the ruins fires smoldered; defective wiring had yielded to the storm's fury; a gasoline tank, struck by lightning, had added its own horror, and everything within a wide radius of it was in flames.

There were people scurrying about like animals, stunned by the unexpectedness and the fury of the storm; men and women, some in night clothes and barefooted, others in what scraps of clothing they had been able to grasp in the breathless moments between awakening and fleeing their homes before the mighty onrush of wind and rain and lightning.

There were people in some of the ruins; people who screamed with terror and pain; people who lay very quietly and would never cry out again.

It was a scene of indescribable confusion. To Cathy, there was something hideously reminiscent of the scenes she had looked upon abroad; but those had been scenes of man-made horror: bombs and shells and the sickeningly terrifying liquid flame throwers. But this—there was something unbearably callous about this, the sheer impersonality of nature's might and fury.

Rescue workers were already busy, unorganized, working in a sort of desperation that retarded their own efforts. There were injured, terrified people already brought out of the ruins. Cathy went swiftly and competently to work, while Maggie, recovered from her own fear and horror by the sight of so much that needed to be done, began gathering up the lost and bewildered children, some of them still half asleep.

Cathy was rolling a bandage about a woman's lacerated forehead when a voice beside her said crisply, "Good work—whoever you are."

Cathy looked up swiftly into the tired, tense face of a man in the sort of white coat that a hospital staff doctor wears.

"I'm Cathy Layne—Lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps," she told him, and tucked the bandage expertly into place.

"Thank the Lord—can we use you!" said the man prayerfully. "I'm Dr. Stevens of St. Vincent's. Can you carry on here for a little? We're shorthanded, and they're coming into the hospital in truckloads."

"Of course. It's a little like what went on in the Pacific," Cathy answered, and passed to the next patient, a child who had been brought out of a wrecked house.

She worked smoothly, efficiently, steeling herself to the ugliness of what she saw. The rescue squads were working more efficiently now, as their dazed horror began to lessen, and they could see better what must be done.

* * *

Three fourths of the town lay in ruins, but out of the undamaged fourth cars were beginning to appear; willing hands took charge of Cathy's patients as fast as she could render first aid, and bore them off to homes, or to the hospital. Now and then Cathy had to sign to the volunteer stretcher-bearers to pass by a patient too badly hurt to be moved, or past all help. It was a job that turned her white about the mouth and made her eyes sick and bitter; but it was so much like what she had gone through overseas that she could steady herself by the memory and go on.

The rain had ceased, and gradually the darkness thinned and the gray light of dawn looked down on what had been, five hours before, a peaceful, prosperous, busy small city. Now it was a shambles among whose ruins lay dead and dying and those whose bodily injuries were less serious but whose minds would forever be marked by the horror of this night. All in less than an hour, it had happened; a wild, roaring wind, black and funnel-shaped, though its evil shape had been hidden by the night's darkness, had swept over the city with its accompaniment of rain and thunder and lightning. And now the city was in ruins.

The gray light brightened and the sun came up.

To Cathy, straightening her weary body, easing her aching back, the first ray of sunlight that fell across the white, twisted face of a woman whose life had run out beneath Cathy's swift, capable hands was something shocking and incredible. It seemed almost indecent that the sun should come up, bright and burnished from the rain; that the leaves should look newly green, fresh-washed, and that they should stir happily in the little breeze that came with the sun's rise. The sound of birds, singing in the ecstasy of the dew-wet, fresh-washed earth, made her shiver and feel that she must put her hands over her ears. How could nature tear the world apart with her fury one moment, and the next present a bright, smiling face innocent of all evil?

"Think there's a chance, Nurse?" asked a grimy, sweat-stained man who laid a crumpled body on the ground before her.

Cathy jerked her head up and looked into the dark, grimy face and gasped, "Mark!"

In this there should be desired help, with financial support for fresh vaulting over obstacles.

For The Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of impediment, frustration and stubborn obstacles, with lagging and static undercurrents. Yet the mentality is so shrewd, calculating and dependable, with its studied analysis of problems and hold-ups, that it should be able to cope with most disconcerting and disheartening situations. In such crises, there is help from higher-ups, impressed by sound plans, and persistent labor to be generous in their support. Work toward enduring goals.

A child born on this day has much capacity for overcoming obstacles and frustrations, by its exceptionally keen, shrewd and analytical mentality, attracting approbation from high places.

WHAT GERMANY NEEDS

WHAT ARE Germans talking and thinking about?

Food, says John S. Hollister, recently returned American Friends Service Committee (Quaker) relief worker. Hollister, speaking before a Los Angeles Town Hall audience, said that a million Germans will die, directly or indirectly, from starvation this Winter, with tuberculosis rising to plague proportions.

Reasons for German food shortage are many. The drought of last Summer was the most severe for 100 years. In peace times Germany has to import some food and through post-war boundary lines she has lost much of her best food-raising land. There are 13 million Germans now in that country who lived elsewhere before the war, and a million displaced persons. Occupation troops of two nations, a million in all, live off Germany.

German officials are tired, hungry, confused, and not equal to the responsibility now being forced upon them in the allies' effort to establish self-government. Hollister suggests that "shock troops", 1,000 American specialists in various fields, be dispatched to Germany to live and work with natives to show them by actual participation how to reorganize their wrecked economy. An American lawyer, for example, could demonstrate not the individual's duty to the state which the German knows well enough, but that unique conception of democracy which is the state's concern with the well being of its citizens.

Germans today scoff at democracy because they do not understand it. They should be taught by democratic Americans living among them.

Germany must be fed and helped to its feet for its own sake and also because Germany is the key to European recovery.

ELECTRICITY FOR FARMS

EVERY 21 seconds of the work week a new farm is hooked up with electricity. Any day now the 2,000,000th farmer will be plugged into the rural network of government-financed electric power, according to the head of the Rural Electrification administration, Claude R. Wickard. The goal of the agency is electricity for all American farms. While two-fifths of American farms are still without electrical power, it is a wonderful thing that so many have it.

Drive along a country road after dark and watch the lights blinking in the barns at chore time. Think what this means when the cows have to be milked and the stock fed. What a boon it is when a sick animal requires middle-of-the-night care. What would happen to the living standards of France and Italy, two countries so greatly in need of aid from the United States, if three-fifths of their farms had electricity?

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

"What did he say?"

That seems to be the eternal question in Washington. The stories are conflicting and confused, but there is no uncertainty that he barged into conversations with opinions that impressed others, opponents perhaps, as juvenile.

I am, of course, referring to General Eisenhower, who prefers to be called Ike. As the stories go, Ike Eisenhower has been going out to dinner among politicians, male and female. Whenever opportunity offers, he apparently grabs at the conversation. On at least two occasions, as I understand it, Ike talked on such subjects as taxation in a manner which startled his hearers because what they heard was unrelated to any reality.

I do not go in either for gossip or prophecy. I do not discuss the family life of queens nor do I manufacture romances for ladies in years of mature discretion. Therefore, I should not give this space to Ike Eisenhower and his mumbling were it not that he paradoxically is one of the most active candidates for the Presidency on the Republican ticket while at the same time he is Mr. Truman's Chief-of-Staff and wears the uniform of the non-political American Army.

The impropriety of his conduct caused the President to appoint his successor while he is still in office. This not-too-gentle hint left Ike Eisenhower cold. He prefers the protection of the uniform to the give-and-take of politics. He prefers to discuss political questions in the privacy of dinner parties rather than to set forth his position in the open where they can be subjected to public scrutiny. He is in a class with Harold Stassen and Henry Wallace, who are the most active candidates for the presidency and permanently so, but he lacks their courage. They hit the hustings and take their chances with public opinion and even ridicule; he hides behind a non-political title while he operates in politics. At least, he cuts a paradoxical figure; at most, it is an absurd one.

All the time that I listened to the "What did he say?" conversations in Washington, I could not help wondering why Ike Eisenhower does not play the game according to the rules. Those rules require that an army officer should not play party politics. Eisenhower has a well-organized, adequately-financed political machine seeking his nomination as a Republican. He hopes, most of all, to get the Pennsylvania delegation.

Both Dewey and Taft believe that Senator Martin, who will head that delegation, will favor them. No one can blame Senator Martin for biding his time; he will hold a balance of power in the convention and can gain political strength for himself and his state therefrom. Eisenhower's managers are concentrating upon that state.

The game is obvious and in the open. But the general is not. He is playing coy—but coy in a United States uniform which is a symbol of defense against a foreign foe, not for tricks in party politics.

Furthermore, he apparently will invade the Republican party as the last hope of the professional New Dealers. They have no expectations with Truman. He has managed skillfully to rid himself of the most brazenly opportunistic of them. Those who remain in Washington are sad that the empires they created for themselves crumbled as soon as Truman took office.

DIET AND HEALTH

Infection Carried By Rabbits

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SOME diseases which we have come to dread are not primarily human afflictions at all. Ordinarily they prey on animals, never attacking man unless, by some chance, he comes in contact with an infected animal.

One such ailment is tularemia which occurs naturally in rabbits, and thus gets its popular name of rabbit fever. Ground squirrels, wild rats, and field mice may also harbor the infection, and man may get it from these sources indirectly through the bite of a wood tick or a fly which has fed on the infected rodents.

Ulcer Forms

Usually, at the point where the infection enters the skin, an ulcer forms, and the lymph glands in the surrounding area become enlarged. The infection then may spread and affect the spleen, liver, and lungs.

The symptoms develop within from one to ten days after the bite occurs. The disorder begins suddenly with a feeling of sickness, chills, fever, and headache. The temperature at first may vary from 100 to 104 degrees. This fever usually lasts for from two to three days; then the temperature falls to normal for about a two-day period. It again rises and the fever may continue for several weeks. When the fever disappears, there may be a prolonged period of weakness which may last for from three to six months.

Finding the Germ

The diagnosis may be confirmed by finding the tularemia germ either in the sore where the bite occurred or in the blood during the first week of the disease.

In general, the outlook (as to life) for persons with this condition is good, but there is a prolonged period of debility or weakness lasting for months. In some cases, such complications as pneumonia or meningitis may occur and, of course, these complications are extremely dangerous and often fatal.

Prevention

Every effort should be made to prevent this disorder. Persons who handle wild rabbits should wear rubber gloves and protect the eyes from infected material.

Insofar as the treatment of tularemia is concerned, such things as the sulfonamide drugs and penicillin have not been found effective. Within the past year, however, evidence has been presented which indicates that streptomycin is of value in the treatment of this disorder.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

G. W.: Do cataracts form on an eye which has been operated on for glaucoma?

Answer: Cataracts do not necessarily form under these circumstances, although they may occur. In the event that they do, however, their operative removal involves no additional risk.

The treatment consists in the use of such tonics as arsenic, iron, and cod-liver oil, if the health is below par. Hexamine has been employed, and the use of various local ointments has been suggested.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

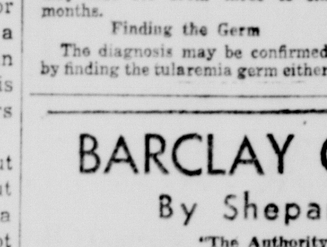
"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE THING AT A TIME

SKILLFUL play of some contracts involves the neatest order of events, whereby each side suit does its part in helping eliminate losers in the next suit. In a spade contract, for instance, the clubs may be used to get rid of a losing heart, the hearts then may be employed to get rid of a losing diamond, and along the way the spade suit may be employed for ruffing out a loser in the hearts to thereby put them in shape for the discard of the unwanted diamond. It can all be quite systematic, almost symmetrical.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

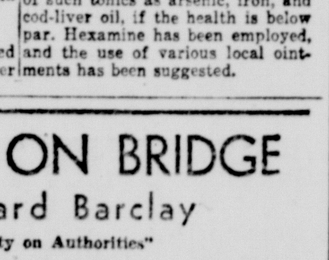
North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	6 ♠

R. J. Reynolds, of the Santanoni at Saranac Lake, New York, said after this deal that he could not recommend the bidding he actually did in the South. But then he explained "I knew my partner's No Trump was strong, and as she is very conservative I decided to gamble on a vulnerable slam." In view of the way he proved he can play a hand, his apology for the bidding is not accepted, since it requires none.

West opened the diamond Q to the K. The spade J and A were scored, and Mr. Reynolds carefully refrained from a third round of trumps to leave the K in dummy as a re-entry. Having built his plan, the timing made it wise now to lead the heart 10, letting West have it with the J. The diamond 10 came back to the A. Now he shed losers like water off a duck's back. He scored the club K, led to the heart A, discarded the heart 5 on the club A, ruffed the heart 9 with the spade Q to set up the dummy's heart 8, led the spade 7 to the K, discarded his losing diamond 7 on the thirteenth heart and had nothing left in his own hand except good trumps.

With apparently two losers in hearts and one in diamonds, he had got rid of them all except the one he gave up in hearts. He of course required some luck to have the hearts divide evenly, but his greatest luck consisted of having the cardsmanship to see how seeking that break gave him a chance to make the contract.

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

If West supported hearts during the auction and leads the K against 5-Clubs, how should East read the situation and what should he do?

The goshawk was once much used for falconry, being easily trained, and very successful in catching such game as is confined to the ground, such as hares, rabbits, pheasants, partridges, etc. It was also flown at geese, hence the name "goose hawk."

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

CATHY caught her breath on a little gasp as there was a hard pounding on the front door, and then a man's voice called loudly, "Miz' Westbrook! Hi, Miz' Westbrook—are you all right?"

Cathy stumbled to the front door and opened it upon their next-door neighbor, Wilbur Krantz, in shirt and trousers, his feet bare, his face white with excitement.

"Must a' hit somewhere in town. There's a fire—see there?" he babbled swiftly. "Wanted to see if y'all were all right. I'm going in to town to see if I can be of any help—must be bad there. Reckin they got the full force. Wasn't that some wind?"

Cathy and Maggie stared, as the man raced away, at the reddish glow toward town that was deepening and growing more ominous every moment.

"Lightning!" said Maggie in a soft, terrified breath. "Something's been hit."

Cathy said swiftly, "Yes, and I'm like Mr. Krantz, Maggie—I'm going in to see if I can be of any help. If that storm struck the town in full force, then there's work there for everybody that can lift his hand."

The thought that there might be people who needed her help rallied Maggie as nothing else could have done.

"Yes, of course. I'll get my first aid kit, Cathy, and get some clothes on. Can you start the Betsy-Bug?" she panted. Cathy assented and ran out into the darkness.

The rain was still falling, but more gently now, the sort of rain farmers and people with cherished gardens had prayed for for weeks; a slow, gentle soaking rain that would revive thirsty flowers and vegetables. But it would not be of much service in putting out a stubborn fire, Cathy told herself soberly, as she swung open the garage door and coaxed the sleeping Betsy-Bug to reluctant life.

All up and down the little suburban street lights were flashing on, and people in all stages of dress and undress were huddled on verandas and at open windows. There was the sound of many faithful cars of the type and vintage of the Betsy-Bug being brought to life. Excited voices called to each other for news; rumor grew in a breath and advanced at leaps and bounds. Mr. Krantz roared off in his reconverted jeep as Maggie and Cathy drove out of their driveway and into the road; and by the time they had turned toward town, they had become one of a rapidly lengthening row of cars, all heading toward town where the angry red glow in the sky was growing more and more ominous.

"My saints and stars!" breathed Maggie, as they reached the edge of town. "That fire's in Frog Hollow, Cathy. Those shacks will burn like tinder, and two and three families all scrouged up in each one of them!"

By now they could gauge something of the extent of the storm's havoc. It had cut through the town sideways, catching the main part of the business section, the modest middle-class homes on its edge, some of the finer homes, and cutting a wide swath through the very heart of Frogtown, which was Cypressville's equivalent of the slums of a larger city.

Because of their sturdier construction, the more substantial buildings in town had suffered only broken window lights and shattered electric signs; some fine old trees that had been carefully preserved by the civic-minded Garden Club had been uprooted. But smaller, older structures lay in ruins. Homes were crushed as though by a giant's fist. Here and there among the ruins fires smoldered; defective wiring had yielded to the storm's fury; a gasoline tank, struck by lightning, had added its own horror, and everything within a wide radius of it was in flames.

There were people scurrying about like animals, stunned by the unexpectedness and the fury of the storm; men and women, some in night clothes and barefooted, others in what scraps of clothing they had been able to grasp in the breathless moments between awakening and fleeing their homes before the mighty onrush of wind and rain and lightning.

There were people in some of the ruins; people who screamed with terror and pain; people who lay very quietly and would never cry out again.

It was a scene of indescribable confusion. To Cathy, there was something hideously reminiscent of the scenes she had looked upon abroad; but those had been scenes of man-made horror: bombs and shells and the sickeningly terrifying liquid flame throwers. But this—there was something unbearably callous about this, the sheer impersonality of nature's might and fury.

Rescue workers were already busy, unorganized, working in a sort of desperation that retarded their own efforts. There were injured, terrified people already brought out of the ruins. Cathy went swiftly and competently to work, while Maggie, recovered from her own fear and horror by the sight of so much that needed to be done, began gathering up the lost and bewildered children, some of them still half asleep.

Cathy was rolling a bandage about a woman's lacerated forehead when a voice beside her said crisply, "Good work—whoever you are."

Cathy looked up swiftly into the tired, tense face of a man in the sort of white coat that a hospital staff doctor wears.

"I'm Cathy Layne—Lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps," she told him, and tucked the bandage expertly into place.

"Thank the Lord—can we use you!" said the man prayerfully. "I'm Dr. Stevens of St. Vincent's. Can you carry on here for a little? We're shorthanded, and they're coming into the hospital in truckloads."

"Of course. It's a little like what went on in the Pacific," Cathy answered, and passed to the next patient, a child who had been brought out of a wrecked house.

She worked smoothly, efficiently, steeling herself to the ugliness of what she saw. The rescue squads were working more efficiently now, as their dazed horror began to lessen, and they could see better what must be done.

• • •

Three fourths of the town lay in ruins, but out of the undamaged fourth cars were beginning to appear; willing hands took charge of Cathy's patients as fast as she could render first aid, and bore them off to homes, or to the hospital. Now and then Cathy had to sign to the volunteer stretcher-bearers to pass by a patient too badly hurt to be moved, or past all help. It was a job that turned her white about the mouth and made her eyes sick and bitter; but it was so much like what she had gone through overseas that she could steady herself by the memory and go on.

The rain had ceased, and gradually the darkness thinned and the gray light of dawn looked down on what had been, five hours before, a peaceful, prosperous, busy small city. Now it was a shambles among whose ruins lay dead and dying and those whose bodily injuries were less serious but whose minds would forever be marked by the horror of this night. All in less than an hour, it had happened; a wild, roaring wind, black and funnel-shaped, though its evil shape had been hidden by the night's darkness, had swept over the city with its accompaniment of rain and thunder and lightning. And now the city was in ruins.

The gray light brightened and the sun came up.

To Cathy, straightening her weary body, easing her aching back, the first ray of sunlight that fell across the white, twisted face of a woman whose life had run out beneath Cathy's swift, capable hands was something shocking and incredible. It seemed almost indecent that the sun should come up, bright and burnished from the rain; that the leaves should look newly green, fresh-washed, and that they should stir happily in the little breeze that came with the sun's rise. The sound of birds, singing in the ecstasy of the dew-wet, fresh-washed earth, made her shiver and feel that she must put her hands over her ears. How could nature tear the world apart with her fury one moment, and the next present a bright, smiling face innocent of all evil?

"Think there's a chance, Nurse?" asked a grimy, sweat-stained man who laid a crumpled body on the ground before her.

Cathy jerked her head up and looked into the dark, grimy face and gasped, "Mark!"

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of impediment, frustration and stubborn obstacles, with lagging and static undercurrents. Yet the mentality is so shrewd, calculating and dependable, with its studied analysis of problems and hold-ups, that it should be able to cope with most disconcerting and disheartening situations. In such crises, there is help from higher-ups, impressed by sound plans, and persistent labor to be generous in their support. Work toward enduring goals.

A child born on this day has much capacity for overcoming obstacles and frustrations, by its exceptionally keen, shrewd and analytical mentality, attracting approbation from high places.

A Little Money Goes A Long Way

4 PRESSURE PHASES

Political Mud-Throwers Trying To Force Ike

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—Probably it is perfectly natural and possibly it is a good trial-by-fire system, but still it's the sort of thing which hurts you to witness if you have any regard for the individual concerned.

What's happening to General Ike Eisenhower is what I mean.

It has been quite a while now since a bunch of us were covering the American Legion annual convention in New York and Ike was one of the guest speakers. As was duly reported at the time, he took the convention by storm.

Without tub-thumping or drum-beating, he managed to get the two greatest ovations of the entire convention—when he arrived and when he departed. Even many a cynical old-time newsman was impressed by the crowd's reaction toward Ike.

Then the question of his political potentialities came up in the press row.

"You know," said one reporter, "I sort of hate to see him thrown into that 1948 rat-race. Right now, he's loved and he's popular—but what the boys will do to him won't be pretty!"

* * *

AT THE TIME, I poohpoohed the idea. Now, I see how right that reporter was and how wrong I was. For Ike Eisenhower, without even (as yet) being officially in the presidential race, is really getting the works—and it isn't all coming from the professional politicians.

The old routine got under way a few weeks ago when it became quite clear that Eisenhower was a force to be reckoned with in 1948.

At first, carefully conducted, it was merely a whispering campaign—but even so, the boys pulled out all the stops. Gently, they hinted things about his personal life, his conduct during the war, his "attitudes" and even dropped smart little suggestions about his ancestors. Unbelievable? Oh, no! It happened.

Then they moved into phase number two, aimed at driving him into making a political commitment before he shed the uniform of the United States Army—a step which would, of course, leave him open to complete professional punishment. Up to and including a possible court martial.

He made no commitment, so then came the terrific effort to get him to paraphrase one lone military predecessor of long ago—to say "I will not run if nominated, and will not serve if elected."

Anyone who knows Ike Eisenhower knows that he would never make any such statement as that. Naturally, he didn't.

Then came phase number three--an attempt to connect him personally with some political clique or other, or at least with some of the various movements springing up to support his candidacy.

* * *

HE DISOWNED every single such group, and often in terms so sharp and critical as to make old-time politicians shudder. And no man arose to say that Eisenhower had approved his activities.

Now we have entered phase number four, which seems to consist largely of charging that Eisenhower is "hiding behind his uniform." You hear and read that he's a craven and a no-good coward and pretty cheap to keep wearing that uniform—instead of (presumably) coming out and fighting the politicians like a man—and thus, of course, easing their minds on what he's going to do.

It would be easy to argue all of these points—to say, for instance, that the uniform doesn't seem to be protecting him much today.

But that is not the purpose of this particular epistle, for if Ike does throw his hat in the presidential ring, then it will be his fight and he'll have to protect himself in the clinches.

But until he somehow commits himself, it is more than a little saddening to see all this slander and mud being slung at a man who, only a short time ago, was being hailed by the world as the top-ranking leader of the victorious Allied armies—and a man who, as yet, hasn't done anything particularly dastardly.

George Westinghouse, inventor, in 1871, set a precedent in large American companies by instituting Saturday half-holidays. He also encouraged progressive pension and benefit plans in his companies.

3 Men Escape In Accidents

CINCINNATI, Dec. 18—Three Cincinnati men were convinced that death took a holiday today.

Two sign painters, working on a whisky sign atop the Mayfair hotel, fell 20 feet to the roof of the building when a rope on their scaffolding broke—missing the edge and a probably-fatal four story fall by scant inches.

And at the Cincinnati Shaper Co., Fred Singer had 25 tons of steel beams fall on him—but one of the pile crisscrossed and the remainder of the beams formed a shallow tent over him. When co-workers dug him out, he escaped with a bruised arm.

The sign painters were Don Buchanan, who suffered only a bruised left foot, and Wilmer Potts, who received a possible fractured leg.

4 PRESSURE PHASES

Political Mud-Throwers Trying To Force Ike

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—Probably it is perfectly natural and possibly it is a good trial-by-fire system, but still it's the sort of thing which hurts you to witness if you have any regard for the individual concerned.

What's happening to General Ike Eisenhower is what I mean.

It has been quite a while now since a bunch of us were covering the American Legion annual convention in New York and Ike was one of the guest speakers. As was duly reported at the time, he took the convention by storm.

Without tub-thumping or drum-beating, he managed to get the two greatest ovations of the entire convention—when he arrived and when he departed. Even many a cynical old-time newsman was impressed by the crowd's reaction toward Ike.

Then the question of his political potentialities came up in the press row.

"You know," said one reporter, "I sort of hate to see him thrown into that 1948 rat-race. Right now, he's loved and he's popular—but what the boys will do to him won't be pretty!"

* * *

AT THE TIME, I poohpoohed the idea. Now, I see how right that reporter was and how wrong I was. For Ike Eisenhower, without even (as yet) being officially in the presidential race, is really getting the works—and it isn't all coming from the professional politicians.

The old routine got under way a few weeks ago when it became quite clear that Eisenhower was a force to be reckoned with in 1948.

At first, carefully conducted, it was merely a whispering campaign—but even so, the boys pulled out all the stops. Gently, they hinted things about his personal life, his conduct during the war, his "attitudes" and even dropped smart little suggestions about his ancestors. Unbelievable? Oh, no! It happened.

Then they moved into phase number two, aimed at driving him into making a political commitment before he shed the uniform of the United States Army—a step which would, of course, leave him open to complete professional punishment. Up to and including a possible court martial.

He made no commitment, so then came the terrific effort to get him to paraphrase one lone military predecessor of long ago—to say "I will not run if nominated, and will not serve if elected."

Anyone who knows Ike Eisenhower knows that he would never make any such statement as that. Naturally, he didn't.

Then came phase number three—an attempt to connect him personally with some political clique or other, or at least with some of the various movements springing up to support his candidacy.

* * *

HE DISOWNED every single such group, and often in terms so sharp and critical as to make old-time politicians shudder. And no man arose to say that Eisenhower had approved his activities.

Now we have entered phase number four, which seems to consist largely of charging that Eisenhower is "hiding behind his uniform." You hear and read that he's a craven and a no-good coward and pretty cheap to keep wearing that uniform—instead of (presumably) coming out and fighting the politicians like a man—and thus, of course, easing their minds on what he's going to do.

It would be easy to argue all of these points—to say, for instance, that the uniform doesn't seem to be protecting him much today.

But that is not the purpose of this particular epistle, for if Ike does throw his hat in the presidential ring, then it will be his fight and he'll have to protect himself in the clinches.

But until he somehow commits himself, it is more than a little saddening to see all this slander and mud being slung at a man who, only a short time ago, was being hailed by the world as the top-ranking leader of the victorious Allied armies—and a man who, as yet, hasn't done anything particularly dastardly.

George Westinghouse, inventor, in 1871, set a precedent in large American companies by instituting Saturday half-holidays. He also encouraged progressive pension and benefit plans in his companies.

285 Milk Cows Listed By Group

County Breeding Project Started

A total of 285 county milk cows have been listed by their owners as available for the service to be offered by the newly-formed Pickaway County Dairy Service Cooperative Association—a group of local farmers interested in development of artificial breeding.

The initial signup was made Wednesday night at a meeting in Memorial hall.

A committee from the association was instructed to immediately start individual contact work in an effort to sign a total of 1,500 cows—the number necessary to make the proposition a paying one in this area.

Larry Best, county agricultural agent, estimated the signup would be completed in about a month.

Wednesday night's meeting brought a series of talks on the advantages and disadvantages of test tube breeding of dairy cows.

• • •

AMONG THE speakers were Best, Bernard Ball, Ashville, president of the association; Kenneth Holtrey, vocational agriculture instructor for Walnut township high school; Russ Palm, manager of the Pickaway dairy; and Richard Kellogg, manager of the Central Ohio bull farm which will handle artificial breeding in this county once the program is underway.

Holtrey pointed out that the average Pickaway county milk cow is producing only 200 pounds of butterfat per year. With present feed prices, it is costing the farmer $4 to $4.50 for each hundred pounds produced, Holtrey declared. He said that if high-type bulls, such as are maintained by the Central Ohio farm, are used for breeding, this same type cow will produce a daughter which will produce 300 pounds of butterfat. And, he added, the daughter will cost the farmer about $3 for each hundred pounds of milk.

Holtrey pointed out the hazards of keeping bulls on the farm and that the farmer has little control over certain infections spread by direct breeding.

Palm emphasized the current demand for milk and declared that "although high prices are now being paid for milk there is a time coming when milk prices will have to be lowered and when higher producers will be necessary."

Kellogg gave a resume of his farm and stated that only two of his 47 bulls are unproved. Of the proven bulls, Kellogg declared that all their daughters are "now producing over 400 pounds of butterfat per year."

He declared that the bulls have increased the production of their daughters "as much as 150 pounds of butterfat over their dams."

DID JUSTICE TRIUMPH?

LAS VEGAS, Dec. 18—So many marriage ceremonies have been performed by Justice of the Peace Harvey E. The judge flatly denied that the weight of his responsiblities had anything to do with the collapse.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, dizziness, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Circleville Teachers Receiving More Salary Than State Average

Circleville's school teachers are receiving salaries "above the state average," Clarence R. Barnhart, president of the city board of education said Thursday.

Barnhart's statement came after publication of a survey made by the Ohio Education Association. The OEA report said the average Ohio teacher now is receiving an annual salary averaging about $2,703.

Although he could not give a detailed figure, Barnhart said "our teachers are being paid above that average."

The OEA survey revealed that 92 percent of the teachers are receiving $2,000 or more now, as compared to 60 percent who received that much last year.

• • •

THE SURVEY also revealed that the $2,703 average exceeds last year's average by $552, or almost $10 a week.

The pay raise is the result of the $27 million yearly increase in state aid to schools, plus various local levies passed by voters last Spring, according to the survey.

According to the Ohio association, the pay increase "means that we can attract promising young men and women to the teaching profession."

By doing so, Ohio schools will be able to fill 25,000 teacher vacancies expected to be opened in the state in the next six years.

Holtrey pointed out that the average Pickaway county milk cow is producing only 200 pounds of butterfat per year. With present feed prices, it is costing the farmer $4 to $4.50 for each hundred pounds produced, Holtrey declared. He said that if high-type bulls, such as are maintained by the Central Ohio farm, are used for breeding, this same type cow will produce a daughter which will produce 300 pounds of butterfat. And, he added, the daughter will cost the farmer about $3 for each hundred pounds of milk.

Holtrey pointed out the hazards of keeping bulls on the farm and that the farmer has little control over certain infections spread by direct breeding.

Palm emphasized the current demand for milk and declared that "although high prices are now being paid for milk there is a time coming when milk prices will have to be lowered and when higher producers will be necessary."

Kellogg gave a resume of his farm and stated that only two of his 47 bulls are unproved. Of the proven bulls, Kellogg declared that all their daughters are "now producing over 400 pounds of butterfat per year."

He declared that the bulls have increased the production of their daughters "as much as 150 pounds of butterfat over their dams."

DID JUSTICE TRIUMPH?

LAS VEGAS, Dec. 18—So many marriage ceremonies have been performed by Justice of the Peace Harvey E. McDonald while standing on the same spot, that the floor of his office finally gave way under the strain while he joined a couple in wedlock. The judge flatly denied that the weight of his responsiblities had anything to do with the collapse.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Circleville Teachers Receiving More Salary Than State Average

Circleville's school teachers are receiving salaries "above the state average," Clarence R. Barnhart, president of the city board of education said Thursday.

Barnhart's statement came after publication of a survey made by the Ohio Education Association. The OEA report said the average Ohio teacher now is receiving an annual salary averaging about $2,703.

Although he could not give a detailed figure, Barnhart said "our teachers are being paid above that average."

The OEA survey revealed that 92 percent of the teachers are receiving $2,000 or more now, as compared to 60 percent who received that much last year.

• • •

THE SURVEY also revealed that the $2,703 average exceeds last year's average by $552, or almost $10 a week.

The pay raise is the result of the $27 million yearly increase in state aid to schools, plus various local levies passed by voters last Spring, according to the survey.

According to the Ohio association, the pay increase "means that we can attract promising young men and women to the teaching profession."

By doing so, Ohio schools will be able to fill 25,000 teacher vacancies expected to be opened in the state in the next six years.

U. S. Atom Progress Lauded

Canadian Sees 10-Year-Lead

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—General A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's delegate to the United Nations Atomic energy Commission, prophesized today that the United States will retain its preeminence in the atomic race for at least ten years.

The United States, according to the Canadian general, has the atomic "know how." He said it is unlikely any other country can keep pace with America in the atomic field without destroying or crippling their national economy.

He deprecated the idea that an atomic war is in the immediate offing. He said there was no occasion for "hysteria."

"It seems reasonably probable," he declared, "that we need not fear its outbreak on any significant scale for a while yet."

Gen McNaughton delivered his exposition of the world atomic energy situation in a speech before the Canadian club of New York.

* * *

HE EXPRESSED the opinion that the key to the situation "in this troubled world" is agreement for the control of atomic energy—a policy which Soviet Russia and Poland has bitterly rejected in the United Nations.

"In the absence of an international agreement," Gen. McNaughton told his audience, "an alternative possibility of preserving peace is that the present paramount ascendancy in this field, which is now held by peace loving and democratic nations, and in largest measure by the United States, should be continued and increased by every method which is open.

"The very progress which is made by these nations will be a strong inducement to other nations to join in the project for international control so that they may share in its benefits."

Gen. McNaughton readily admitted there can be no monopoly in the facts of science. He said that what one nation has found out, others can learn by the application of appropriate efforts if granted sufficient time.

"There never have been any real secrets about the atomic bomb," he said. "The whole epic history of nuclear physics has been international in character."

Having neither principles nor character, many of them have been invading the Republican party, getting little jobs here and there in quiet obscurity. Others, as lawyers and economists, have gone to work for the businessmen they persecuted while in power, selling inside information and inside connections for the Dollars they despised when they were on the other side.

Now they have struck on the idea of the Man in Uniform, Ike Eisenhower, on whose shoulders they will heave themselves back in power. They constitute the propaganda machine of his candidacy. They hope to blitz the Republican convention as General Patton did the Germans in the Bulge.

This is clear: Willkie was defeated because Republicans did not vote for him. Should Eisenhower run as a Republican, a vast enough number of Republicans will vote for Truman to elect him—Henry Wallace notwithstanding.

Jury Drawing Due Friday

The names of 15 grand jurors and 40 petit jurors will be drawn Friday, Pickaway county common pleas court attaches said Thursday.

Drawings will be made by W. D. Heiskel of Williamsport and Fred Nichols, Circleville, members of the jury commission, with County Clerk of Courts Arthur Wilder and Common Pleas Judge William Radcliff standing by.

Royal Pay Hike Hitting Snag

LONDON, Dec. 18—A proposal to increase the allowance of Princess Elizabeth and also provide a separate income for her bridegroom, the Duke of Edinburgh, was threatened today by a revolt of Laborite members of Parliament.

A select committee of the house of commons recommended that the royal couple should receive a combined income of $200,000 a year.

FDR Yule Trees Being Sold

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 18—Christmas trees from the late President Roosevelt's Val-Kill farms at Hyde Park will go on sale here, today for $1 each.

Elliott Roosevelt, who with his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, bought Val-Kill farms from the Roosevelt estate, said between one and two thousand young Norway and white spruce trees ranging from four to 10 feet tall would be sold direct to the public at the flat $1 price.

Thousands of additional trees are being sold to wholesalers for a flat 65 cents each but prices as high as $35 each are reported being obtained at retail in New York City.

The late President planted 30,000 Christmas trees 10 years ago and this is the first commercial harvest.

Overseas Gift Rules Changed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—The government announced simplified procedures today for shipping gift parcels overseas by air.

The Commerce department said that any gift package weighing not more than 22 pounds and containing not more than five dollars' worth of fats, oils, soaps, streptomycin, quinine, sulfate and quinine hydrochloride may be shipped by general export license.

At the same time, the Census Bureau declared that many of the questions on the shipper's export declaration for gift packages under $100 may be left unanswered. About all the sender needs to do now is sign his name—the rest of the information is filled in by the airlines.

In this season of the year we make much of the brighter side of Christmas. We decorate our homes, stores and streets with tinsel, ornaments and colored lights. We hurry about, buying presents and making plans for Christmas Day. Mostly we give because we want to give. We are caught up in the Christmas spirit, and we find pleasure in sharing. I've noticed, and you probably have, too, how different people are around this time. We are all friendlier, all more considerate and less critical of the faults of others. Without really making an effort, we seem to have absorbed some of the true meaning of Christmas. . .the birthday of the Prince of Peace. Think what a world this would be if we could hold this Yuletide attitude throughout the year. . . not the tinsel and the colored lights, but the sympathetic tolerance for each other. Perhaps that would be the true beginning of "Peace on earth, good will toward men." I'd like to extend my Christmas Greeting to you and your family, and I hope that some day out of the warm spirit of this annual celebration the peoples of all countries will be able to enjoy these blessings that are ours. . .in a world that is truly at peace.

A brief item from Augsburg, Germany, tells of the arrest of a black market operator. His name is not given and his legitimate profession, if any, has not been revealed.

United States military officials in Bavaria elicited from the prisoner information that he is a member of a hitherto undiscovered underground storm - troop organization known as "Odessa."

This gives a clue to the tremendous job the allies still are facing in their efforts to democratize Germany.

Short of unlocking the military archives of the Pentagon building in Washington, there is no real way of telling the actual extent of underground movements in Germany today.

Observers in close touch with the occupational government, however, make no secret of the fact they are constant threats and will remain such until that still far-distant date when Germany is put back to work on a decent standard of living as member of the family of nations.

* * *

IN GOOD times and bad, it is a national characteristic of the German to be a great "joiner."

Every village, town, city and hamlet has had since the earliest times its fencing clubs, singing societies, beer-drinking groups and all the rest, while in the upper levels, officers clubs and the like set the standard social pattern.

Adolf Hitler was quick indeed to seize upon this tendency toward "cliques" to build up his Nazi regime.

He gave top honers to the always-exclusive Herrnklub in Berlin, paying utmost respect for a time at least to its old guard regardless of political tendencies. As time went on he packed the directorate with sympathizers.

But he always was most careful to ensure that no Nazi roughnecks broke into the sacred confines.

Old-line army officers, bankers, financiers and others who found it profitable to feather their nests in the Nazi windfall made a fine and polished front for his maneuvers.

Mere physical circumstances are throwing the German people closer together than ever before and the instinct for "joining" is being cultivated rather than repressed.

There probably are passwords and cabalistic signs. Chalked and painted swastikas still have a way of appearing on walls and sidewalks. There may be no definite and widespread organization as yet. But there is no doubt that the makings of it are there.

Fire Destroys Jewish Library

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18—Fire broke out in suburban University Heights early today and destroyed the one-story library and office building of the Cleveland Jewish Center's Park school.

The building was completely razed as a cold Winter wind spread the blaze before fire fighters arrived. Acting Chief Arthur E. Menn estimated damages at $25,000.

Firemen poured water into the inferno but the roof collapsed and the persistent flames licked at the walls until all that remained was a brick base, about a foot high.

In this season of the year we make much of the brighter side of Christmas. We decorate our homes, stores and streets with tinsel, ornaments and colored lights. We hurry about, buying presents and making plans for Christmas Day. Mostly we give because we want to give. We are caught up in the Christmas spirit, and we find pleasure in sharing. I've noticed, and you probably have, too, how different people are around this time. We are all friendlier, all more considerate and less critical of the faults of others. Without really making an effort, we seem to have absorbed some of the true meaning of Christmas. . .the birthday of the Prince of Peace. Think what a world this would be if we could hold this Yuletide attitude throughout the year. . . not the tinsel and the colored lights, but the sympathetic tolerance for each other. Perhaps that would be the true beginning of "Peace on earth, good will toward men." I'd like to extend my Christmas Greeting to you and your family, and I hope that some day out of the warm spirit of this annual celebration the peoples of all countries will be able to enjoy these blessings that are ours. . .in a world that is truly at peace.

A brief item from Augsburg, Germany, tells of the arrest of a black market operator. His name is not given and his legitimate profession, if any, has not been revealed.

United States military officials in Bavaria elicited from the prisoner information that he is a member of a hitherto undiscovered underground storm - troop organization known as "Odessa."

This gives a clue to the tremendous job the allies still are facing in their efforts to democratize Germany.

Short of unlocking the military archives of the Pentagon building in Washington, there is no real way of telling the actual extent of underground movements in Germany today.

Observers in close touch with the occupational government, however, make no secret of the fact they are constant threats and will remain such until that still far-distant date when Germany is put back to work on a decent standard of living as member of the family of nations.

• • •

IN GOOD times and bad, it is a national characteristic of the German to be a great "joiner."

Every village, town, city and hamlet has had since the earliest times its fencing clubs, singing societies, beer-drinking groups and all the rest, while in the upper levels, officers clubs and the like set the standard social pattern.

Adolf Hitler was quick indeed to seize upon this tendency toward "cliques" to build up his Nazi regime.

He gave top honers to the always-exclusive Herrnklub in Berlin, paying utmost respect for a time at least to its old guard regardless of political tendencies. As time went on he packed the directorate with sympathizers.

But he always was most careful to ensure that no Nazi roughnecks broke into the sacred confines.

Old-line army officers, bankers, financiers and others who found it profitable to feather their nests in the Nazi windfall made a fine and polished front for his maneuvers.

Mere physical circumstances are throwing the German people closer together than ever before and the instinct for "joining" is being cultivated rather than repressed.

There probably are passwords and cabalistic signs. Chalked and painted swastikas still have a way of appearing on walls and sidewalks. There may be no definite and widespread organization as yet. But there is no doubt that the makings of it are there.

Fire Destroys Jewish Library

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18—Fire broke out in suburban University Heights early today and destroyed the one-story library and office building of the Cleveland Jewish Center's Park school.

The building was completely razed as a cold Winter wind spread the blaze before fire fighters arrived. Acting Chief Arthur E. Menn estimated damages at $25,000.

Firemen poured water into the inferno but the roof collapsed and the persistent flames licked at the walls until all that remained was a brick base, about a foot high.

Argentina Set To Aid Relief Plan

Disastrous Finale Said Possible

HAVANA, Dec. 18—Diego Luis Molinari, who announced Argentina is ready to help the Marshall Plan with five billion dollars credits, declared today the American nations must reconstruct their own economies or face possibly "disastrous" results.

Molinari, as chief Argentine delegate to the Havana conference on international trade, said Tuesday that President Peron's government will extend the credits—which he described as "compensated and graduated"—to needy nations of the world.

Indicating that the Latin American countries might be among the leading beneficiaries of the Argentine credits, Molinari said:

"In my opinion, success of the Marshall Plan depends upon the cooperation and economic aid, not only to Europe, but also to countries which are cooperating to aid Europe. These are indispensable factors for success of the plan.

* * *

"THE MARSHALL Plan has deficiencies from the point of view of the United States economy, and to cover its gaps—especially as regards foodstuffs and raw materials—it is virtually necessary for the American countries to cover these deficiencies as it is obvious they are the only ones in a position to do so.

"Therefore, it is necessary that—simultaneously with aid to Europe—reconstructing of the economy of the American continent should be studied. Otherwise, there would crop up economic consequences which I consider disastrous."

Referring to the news conference at which he mentioned the five billion dollar credits, Molinari emphasized that his offer was of "compensated and graduated" credit and added that an "erroneous" impression had apparently been created.

Molinari explained that Argentina is ready to contract to supply European countries, within the Marshall Plan, with a million tons of wheat a month and 500-thousand tons of beef yearly on the basis of the five-years price now ruling United States markets.

The Argentinian official estimated the cost of these shipments would come to about five billion dollars, which he said would not be a credit granted for future payment but would be compensated by purchases from the aided countries.

Church-State Debate Looms

LONDON, Dec. 18—A sharp controversy between the Church of England and the government loomed today as a result of the ruling by the house of lords that procreation is not the fundamental purpose of marriage.

The decision of the law lords of the house of lords, the highest court in Britain, may bring about a sharp cleavage in view between the church and state.

An immediate airing of the controversial subject is expected when diocesan bishops meet in London next month under the chairmanship of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

The ruling, announced by the lord chancellor, Lord Lowitt, established as a legal principle that use of contraceptives by either party to a marriage does not constitute a refusl to consummate the marriage. Therefore the marriage cannot be annuled on such grounds the court said.

Schmidt Trial Nearing End

HAVANA, Dec. 18—The sensational 10-week trial of Nightclub Dancer Patricia Schmidt for the slaying of Chicago Attorney John Lester Mee is expected to be concluded today with a summation by the defense.

There were indications that the exotic Toledo, O., dancer may learn her fate before Christmas.

Summations by both public and private prosecutors were concluded in yesterday's court session in closed chambers.

The prosecution, which reduced its original charge of murder to homicide, has demanded that Patricia be given the maximum penalty of 26 years of imprisonment.

Wants Dog Back

"PLEASE bring back my dog," pleads bedridden Anthony Litwinchuk, 9, of Chicago, as he holds out 10 silver dollars—his entire savings—which he is offering for the return of his black and white fox terrier. Fire Sweeps Kenton Armory

KENTON, Dec. 18 — Kenton's National Guard unit was homeless today following a fire and explosion that swept through the city's 53-year-old armory yesterday afternoon.

No estimate of damage to the building was made immediately, but approximately $15,000-worth of National Guard equipment was destroyed.

The armory's heating system also was used by the adjacent Hardin County courthouse, jail and sheriff's residence. Three county jail prisoners were transferred to city prison and county offices temporarily closed.

LIONS TO BE NO. 3?

Circleville Cagers Eye First League Encounter

Coach Dorwin Peer, mentor for the Circleville Tigers, will lead his charges to the floor of the Washington C. H. Blue Lions Friday night to play the first South Central league game this year.

Having topped the big boys from Columbus University high school Tuesday night making a total of two wins and one loss so far this season, the Circleville quintet is prepping to count the Lions to as their third victim.

Washington has won from Bexley and lost to Grandview and Hillsboro so far. The Blue Lions have averaged a little more than 33 points per game.

Circleville has averaged a little more than 35 points per game.

• • •

STARTERS for the Washington squad probably will be Campbell and either Korn or Andrews at forwards, O'Brien at center, and Denton and Craig at the guard positions. Denton and Andrews were the top two scorers for the Lions in their encounter against Grandview, each connecting with 10 points.

The Circleville team was under close scrutiny Tuesday night when the coaches from Washington and Greenfield were present to do a little scouting. Checking for the Lions was Head Coach Fred Pearson while Football Mentor John Greisheimer was feeding the McClain dope bucket.

The first five for the Red and Black probably will be Jack Young and Bob Eccard at forwars, Bob Shaw at center, and Paul Smallwood and "Red" Crawford at the guards.

Coach Steve Brudzinski's reserves will be after their third win in four tries Friday night, too. The starters for the reserves probably will be Teddy Sims, Abe Rhil, Don Mancini, Harold Hill, and John Valentine. Brudzinski has hinted only four of the five are "sure" starters—he considers the fifth spot was "weak."

The reserves had been basket-shay in their first two encounters, but the 32 points they scored in Tuesday's game gives them an average of 28 points per game.

Gametime for the encounter will be 7:15 p. m. for the reserve tilt, and 8:15 for the varsity.

High School Cagers Getting Serious Now

By International News Service

Ohio's myriad scholastic basketball teams will mark the last weekend of pre-holiday play by getting down to brass tacks in many cases.

This weekend's heavy salvo of games includes stern tests for such early flashes as Columbus Central, Canton Township, Alliance, East Liverpool, Massillon, Canton Central and Findlay.

A notable exception is Middletown. The Class A champ of 1944, '45 and '47 should have no trouble recording its third straight victory of the current season Friday night against Miamisburg.

Undefeated Alliance and last year's state championship runner-up, East Liverpool, meet in the Potters' kiln. Although a far cry from a year ago, the Potters have lost only one of four games to date.

Findlay, another state tourney team of a year ago, seeks its fifth in a row against Xenia. The revenge motive enters here, for Xenia was one of two teams that managed to defeat Findlay last year.

• • •

COLUMBUS Central (6-0) meets Columbus West (5-2), Massillon (2-0) tackles Canton Lehman Friday and Canton Lincoln Saturday. Canton Central Catholic (3-0) runs up against Akron Central and Toledo Central Catholic on successive evenings.

The woods are full of undefeated teams at this stage, but some of the most impressive are Ashland, with a brilliant team that may outdo last year's fine quintet; Hamilton Catholic, and both Mansfield clubs, the Tygers and Madison.

Michigan '11' Heading West

CHICAGO, Dec. 18—The unbeaten University of Michigan football team will leave Chicago tonight for California and the New Year's Day Rose Bowl game against Southern California.

The 44-man squad is to leave on a special section of the Super Chief at 7 p. m. (EST). Besides the team, the special train will carry coaches, university officials, and newspaper and radio men.

Output Record Seen Next Year

DETROIT, Dec. 18—Joseph W. Frazer, president of the Kaiser-Frazer Corporation, said today that if enough steel is available the automobile industry in the United States will set a new passenger car production record of approximately five million units in 1948.

Even so, said Frazer in an interview, a "seller's market" next year is assured.

The automobile magnate pointed out that the previous production record of automobiles in this country was reached in 1929. In that year 4,587,000 passenger units were turned out.

He estimated that passenger car output in 1947 will exceed 3,500,000.

River beds and spoil banks in Pennsylvania yielded 10,000,000 tons of anthracite in 1945.

Shotguns Down 100 Ohio Deer

PAINESVILLE, Dec. 18—Northeastern Ohio's shotgun brigade stalked the fields and woods of six counties today in search of further deer as the open hunting season moved into its second last day.

The nimrods accounted for about 100 deer yesterday, first day the shotgun enthusiasts took over after two days of arrow hunting by some 100 archers netted only seven deer.

H. M. Cannel, district game warden supervisor, said only one arrest was made, that in Geauga County when a hunter was found without a deer permit. Lake County was tops in deer shot with 30.

Legion Cagers Book Contest Against VA '5'

The Circleville American Legion Basketball team will play a practice game with the Veterans Administration Collections Unit team on the Roll-n-Bowl floor Friday night.

The Columbus team was tied for championship in the VA league in Columbus last year, and is leading the loop agains this year.

The Legion team has not yet been chosen from the many who vie for a berth on the first squad. Team members to represent the Legion probably will be picked from performances in this game, and will be the team to travel to the Legion district championship tournament February 15,

The game will start at 7:30 p. m. There will be no admission charge.

Ed Stanky Sets Mark In Fielding

Brooklyn Brat Posts .9853

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—"Good field; good hit" would be an accurate paraphrase and appraisal of the nine men who form the National league's mythical 1947 defensive all-star team, based on official figures released today.

Contrary to veteran coach, Mike Gonzales' classic summation of a rookie ball player's talents; "good field; no hit," the top defensive men in the National league last year could do both.

Here is the lineup, with the fielding average in parentheses:

First base, Johnny Mize of New York (.996); second base, Eddie Stanky of Brooklyn, (.985); Shortstop, Marty Marion, of St. Louis (.981); third base, Bob Elliott of Boston, the league's most valuable player, (.956); and catcher, Phil Masi of Boston, (.989).

In the outfield, Bill Nicholson of Chicago, (.990); Tommy Holmes of Boston, (.989); and Augie Galan of Cincinnati, (.988).

Stanky's mark established a league record.

• • •

EMIL (Dutch) Leonard, Philadelphia pitcher, fielded perfectly, accepting 69 catches without misplay.

These nine men were tops defensively with an over-all average of .985. On offense, they were equally efficient, battling a collective .289. In fact, five of the top 13 hitters in the National league are on the defensive all-star roster.

Concerning Stanky's new fielding record for second baseman, the Brooklyn "brat" just did top Lonnie Frey's 1943 mark of .9851. Stanky posted a .9853.

Buddy Kerr, Giant shortstop who lost out to Marion by .004 points for best defensive shortstop extended his own record of consecutive games without error to 68. Buddy's streak, held over from the 1946 season, extended through the first 16 games of '47 before he erred.

Despite the fact that Boston placed three men on the first string defensive unit, St. Louis captured club defensive honors for the second successive year. The Cards had a club average of .979 and made the fewest errors, 128.

New York made the most errors, 155.

The league for the second straight year, established a new major league record for fielding with a .976 mark compared to last year's .974.

Pirates Buy Pelican Club

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 18—A new owner took over control today of the New Orleans baseball club of the Southern Association.

Sale of the Pelicans to the Pittsburgh Athletic Co., operators of the Pittsburgh National league club, was announced last night by A. B. Freeman, president of the Pels.

Freeman said the sale was motivated by the desire to give New Orleans the best ball club possible. He said the deal makes the Pirates the sole owners of the Pels.

Mikan Pacing Cage Scorers

INDIANAPOLIS Dec. 17—George Mikan, center for the Minneapolis Lakers, paced the National Basketball league scoring today with 290 points in 14 games, an average of 20.7 points a game.

Mikan, former De Paul All-America, is 42 points up on Al Cervi of the Rochester Royals, last year's league-leading scorer, on the basis of statistics compiled through the games of Dec. 15.

Pro Grid Peace Nearing

Rival Leagues May Sign Pact

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—Peace in pro football seemed immeasurably nearer today with the disclosure that two influential club-owners in the rival National league and All America conference had been conferring privately concerning an armistice.

The olive-branch pair, Alexis Thompson, of the Philadelphia Eagles, and Art McBride, of Cleveland's 1946-47 conference champions, quickly reached an accord early this week, with the first reaction being recorded yesterday.

This was the conference's decision to make its annual player-draft a provisional one—to be voided in case the National agreed to a two-league draft, a la baseball, at its annual meeting Friday.

Thompson, unlike McBride, didn't officially represent the elder body or its recorded sentiment.

But he announced today he would carry the fight on to the floor of the meeting, as his part of the compact, and claimed the pledged support of several recent "converts" to the cause.

• • •

THE MOVE apparently won't be too soon for the financial comfort of some principals in this warfare—not soon enough for others.

The Chicago Rockets have been taken over by the conference within recent days, thus following the course of the ill-fated Miami franchise last year. Brooklyn and its strangely resilient Bill Cox announced early yesterday they planned to stay in there, punching.

Later in the day, Baseball's Branch Rickey caused speculation by admitting he was "interested" in the conference situation.

Competitive bidding for "name" players, fresh off the campus, is the recognized bankroll-burner—with a five-figure payoff far from uncommon.

It will run especially high in the case of Harry Gilmer, Alabama's All America who was drafted by Brooklyn yesterday, and that of Bobby Layne of Texas, claimed by the Baltimore Colts.

First choices were revealed by the Colts and the Rockets, with the latter taking Tony Minisi, Pennsylvania southpaw. Just which club snared Notre Dame's great quarterback Johnny Lujack, remained buried in the official silence—complete in four cases, partial in three others.

Only the New York Yankees made a sweeping, unabashed declaration of their choices, totalling 24 of the 195 college men siphoned into conference option and priority. Their first choice was Gilmer's backfield mate at Alabama, Lowell Tew, a star passer.

Other notable selectees on the New York list were Barney Poole, Mississippi end; Jack Weisenberger, Michigan halfback, and John Penelli, Notre Dame's power runner.

Holy Cross '5' Tastes Defeat

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—Good things may come in small packages, as alleged, but you couldn't prove it by Holy Cross today as the Crusaders rode back to their Worcester, Mass., campus in the dismal company of their first basketball defeat in 27 games.

It was scored by Columbia, 60-53, last night in the latter's compact, little gymnasium which seemingly cramped the routine of the 1946 NCA

LIONS TO BE NO. 3?

Circleville Cagers Eye First League Encounter

Coach Dorwin Peer, mentor for the Circleville Tigers, will lead his charges to the floor of the Washington C. H. Blue Lions Friday night to play the first South Central league game this year.

Having topped the big boys from Columbus University high school Tuesday night making a total of two wins and one loss so far this season, the Circleville quintet is prepping to count the Lions to as their third victim.

Washington has won from Bexley and lost to Grandview and Hillsboro so far. The Blue Lions have averaged a little more than 33 points per game.

Circleville has averaged a little more than 35 points per game.

• • •

STARTERS for the Washington squad probably will be Campbell and either Korn or Andrews at forwards, O'Brien at center, and Denton and Craig at the guard positions. Denton and Andrews were the top two scorers for the Lions in their encounter against Grandview, each connecting with 10 points.

The Circleville team was under close scrutiny Tuesday night when the coaches from Washington and Greenfield were present to do a little scouting. Checking for the Lions was Head Coach Fred Pearson while Football Mentor John Greisheimer was feeding the McClain dope bucket.

The first five for the Red and Black probably will be Jack Young and Bob Eccard at forwars, Bob Shaw at center, and Paul Smallwood and "Red" Crawford at the guards.

Coach Steve Brudzinski's reserves will be after their third win in four tries Friday night, too. The starters for the reserves probably will be Teddy Sims, Abe Rhil, Don Mancini, Harold Hill, and John Valentine. Brudzinski has hinted only four of the five are "sure" starters—he considers the fifth spot was "weak."

The reserves had been basket-shay in their first two encounters, but the 32 points they scored in Tuesday's game gives them an average of 28 points per game.

Gametime for the encounter will be 7:15 p. m. for the reserve tilt, and 8:15 for the varsity.

High School Cagers Getting Serious Now

By International News Service

Ohio's myriad scholastic basketball teams will mark the last weekend of pre-holiday play by getting down to brass tacks in many cases.

This weekend's heavy salvo of games includes stern tests for such early flashes as Columbus Central, Canton Township, Alliance, East Liverpool, Massillon, Canton Central and Findlay.

A notable exception is Middletown. The Class A champ of 1944, '45 and '47 should have no trouble recording its third straight victory of the current season Friday night against Miamisburg.

Undefeated Alliance and last year's state championship runner-up, East Liverpool, meet in the Potters' kiln. Although a far cry from a year ago, the Potters have lost only one of four games to date.

Findlay, another state tourney team of a year ago, seeks its fifth in a row against Xenia. The revenge motive enters here, for Xenia was one of two teams that managed to defeat Findlay last year.

• • •

COLUMBUS Central (6-0) meets Columbus West (5-2). Massillon (2-0) tackles Canton Lehman Friday and Canton Lincoln Saturday. Canton Central Catholic (3-0) runs up against Akron Central and Toledo Central Catholic on successive evenings.

The woods are full of undefeated teams at this stage, but some of the most impressive are Ashland, with a brilliant team that may outdo last year's fine quintet; Hamilton Catholic, and both Mansfield clubs, the Tygers and Madison.

Michigan '11' Heading West

CHICAGO, Dec. 18—The unbeaten University of Michigan football team will leave Chicago tonight for California and the New Year's Day Rose Bowl game against Southern California.

The 44-man squad is to leave on a special section of the Super Chief at 7 p. m. (EST). Besides the team, the special train will carry coaches, university officials, and newspaper and radio men.

Output Record Seen Next Year

DETROIT, Dec. 18—Joseph W. Frazer, president of the Kaiser-Frazer Corporation, said today that if enough steel is available the automobile industry in the United States will set a new passenger car production record of approximately five million units in 1948.

Even so, said Frazer in an interview, a "seller's market" next year is assured.

The automobile magnate pointed out that the previous production record of automobiles in this country was reached in 1929. In that year 4,587,000 passenger units were turned out.

He estimated that passenger car output in 1947 will exceed 3,500,000.

River beds and spoil banks in Pennsylvania yielded 10,000,000 tons of anthracite in 1945.

Legion Cagers Book Contest Against VA '5'

The Circleville American Legion Basketball team will play a practice game with the Veterans Administration Collections Unit team on the Roll-n-Bowl floor Friday night.

The Columbus team was tied for championship in the VA league in Columbus last year, and is leading the loop agains this year.

The Legion team has not yet been chosen from the many who vie for a berth on the first squad. Team members to represent the Legion probably will be picked from performances in this game, and will be the team to travel to the Legion district championship tournament February 15.

The game will start at 7:30 p. m. There will be no admission charge.

Ed Stanky Sets Mark In Fielding

Brooklyn Brat Posts .9853

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—"Good field; good hit" would be an accurate paraphrase and appraisal of the nine men who form the National league's mythical 1947 defensive all-star team, based on official figures released today.

Contrary to veteran coach, Mike Gonzales' classic summation of a rookie ball player's talents; "good field; no hit," the top defensive men in the National league last year could do both.

Here is the lineup, with the fielding average in parentheses:

First base, Johnny Mize of New York (.996); second base, Eddie Stanky of Brooklyn, (.985); Shortstop, Marty Marion, of St. Louis (.981); third base, Bob Elliott of Boston, the league's most valuable player, (.956); and catcher, Phil Masi of Boston, (.989).

In the outfield, Bill Nicholson of Chicago, (.990); Tommy Holmes of Boston, (.989); and Augie Galan of Cincinnati, (.988).

Stanky's mark established a league record.

• • •

EMIL (Dutch) Leonard, Philadelphia pitcher, fielded perfectly, accepting 69 catches without misplay.

These nine men were tops defensively with an over-all average of .985. On offense, they were equally efficient, battling a collective .289. In fact, five of the top 13 hitters in the National league are on the defensive all-star roster.

Concerning Stanky's new fielding record for second baseman, the Brooklyn "brat" just did top Lonnie Frey's 1943 mark of .9851. Stanky posted a .9853.

Buddy Kerr, Giant shortstop who lost out to Marion by .004 points for best defensive shortstop extended his own record of consecutive games without error to 68. Buddy's streak, held over from the 1946 season, extended through the first 16 games of '47 before he erred.

Despite the fact that Boston placed three men on the first string defensive unit, St. Louis captured club defensive honors for the second successive year. The Cards had a club average of .979 and made the fewest errors, 128.

New York made the most errors, 155.

The league for the second straight year, established a new major league record for fielding with a .976 mark compared to last year's .974.

Shotguns Down 100 Ohio Deer

PAINESVILLE, Dec. 18—Northeastern Ohio's shotgun brigade stalked the fields and woods of six counties today in search of further deer as the open hunting season moved into its second last day.

The nimrods accounted for about 100 deer yesterday, first day the shotgun enthusiasts took over after two days of arrow hunting by some 100 archers netted only seven deer.

H. M. Cannel, district game warden supervisor, said only one arrest was made, that in Geauga County when a hunter was found without a deer permit. Lake County was tops in deer shot with 30.

Pirates Buy Pelican Club

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 18—A new owner took over control today of the New Orleans baseball club of the Southern Association.

Sale of the Pelicans to the Pittsburgh Athletic Co., operators of the Pittsburgh National league club, was announced last night by A. B. Freeman, president of the Pels.

Freeman said the sale was motivated by the desire to give New Orleans the best ball club possible. He said the deal makes the Pirates the sole owners of the Pels.

Mikan Pacing Cage Scorers

INDIANAPOLIS Dec. 17—George Mikan, center for the Minneapolis Lakers, paced the National Basketball league scoring today with 290 points in 14 games, an average of 20.7 points a game.

Mikan, former De Paul All-America, is 42 points up on Al Cervi of the Rochester Royals, last year's league-leading scorer, on the basis of statistics compiled through the games of Dec. 15.

Pro Grid Peace Nearing

Rival Leagues May Sign Pact

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—Peace in pro football seemed immeasurably nearer today with the disclosure that two influential club-owners in the rival National league and All America conference had been conferring privately concerning an armistice.

The olive-branch pair, Alexis Thompson, of the Philadelphia Eagles, and Art McBride, of Cleveland's 1946-47 conference champions, quickly reached an accord early this week, with the first reaction being recorded yesterday.

This was the conference's decision to make its annual player-draft a provisional one—to be voided in case the National agreed to a two-league draft, a la baseball, at its annual meeting Friday.

Thompson, unlike McBride, didn't officially represent the elder body or its recorded sentiment.

But he announced today he would carry the fight on to the floor of the meeting, as his part of the compact, and claimed the pledged support of several recent "converts" to the cause.

• • •

THE MOVE apparently won't be too soon for the financial comfort of some principals in this warfare—not soon enough for others.

The Chicago Rockets have been taken over by the conference within recent days, thus following the course of the ill-fated Miami franchise last year. Brooklyn and its strangely resilient Bill Cox announced early yesterday they planned to stay in there, punching.

Later in the day, Baseball's Branch Rickey caused speculation by admitting he was "interested" in the conference situation.

Competitive bidding for "name" players, fresh off the campus, is the recognized bankroll-burner—with a five-figure payoff far from uncommon.

It will run especially high in the case of Harry Gilmer, Alabama's All America who was drafted by Brooklyn yesterday, and that of Bobby Layne of Texas, claimed by the Baltimore Colts.

First choices were revealed by the Colts and the Rockets, with the latter taking Tony Minisi, Pennsylvania southpaw. Just which club snared Notre Dame's great quarterback Johnny Lujack, remained buried in the official silence—complete in four cases, partial in three others.

Only the New York Yankees made a sweeping, unabashed declaration of their choices, totalling 24 of the 195 college men siphoned into conference option and priority. Their first choice was Gilmer's backfield mate at Alabama, Lowell Tew, a star passer.

Other notable selectees on the New York list were Barney Poole, Mississippi end; Jack Weisenberger, Michigan halfback, and John Penelli, Notre Dame's power runner.

Holy Cross '5' Tastes Defeat

NEW YORK, Dec. 18—Good things may come in small packages, as alleged, but you couldn't prove it by Holy Cross today as the Crusaders rode back to their Worcester, Mass., campus in the dismal company of their first basketball defeat in 27 games.

It was scored by Columbia, 60-53, last night in the latter's compact, little gymnasium which seemingly cramped the routine of the 1946 NCAA champions no end.

Only Sophomore Bob Cousy was able to cope with Columbia's fast work under the basket,
